FIELDHOUSE EXPANSION & RENOVATION

After renovations, the arena's seating capacity will increase by at least 1,000 seats. (Artist's renderings by Burt Hill)

The Fieldhouse will be renamed the Michael J. Hagan '85 Arena upon completion of the project. (Artist's renderings by Burt Hill)

A major expansion of Alumni Memorial Fieldhouse and a dedicated center for men's and women's basketball highlight a comprehensive plan for enhancing varsity and recreational athletics at Saint Joseph's. Construction on the project began in October of 2007.

The Fieldhouse, home to Saint Joseph's University basketball since 1949, will be named for Michael J. Hagan '85 at the conclusion of the multi-year project. Hagan, chairman and former chief executive officer of Horsham-based NutriSystem, Inc., and his wife Joyce, are contributing $10 million as the lead benefactors for the most comprehensive enhancement of athletic facilities in Saint Joseph's history.

The actual construction of the project began in the Fall 2007 with the demolition of Flannigan Hall and Barry Annex. That was followed by the renovation of Barry Hall into offices for the athletic administration.

Once the 2007-08 basketball season was completed last March, work began on the exterior of the Fieldhouse and the foundation was laid for the basketball center that will be adjacent to the Fieldhouse. This basketball center will house state-of-the-art facilities for men's and women's basketball, and will include new locker rooms, coaches' offices, meeting areas and dedicated academic and study space. The entire center will incorporate video and multi-media technology and will include a new Hall of Fame Room and expanded media relations capacity.

The majority of the athletic department staff (approximately 40 people) moved into the new offices of Barry Hall on May 19, 2008. The offices are the permanent sites for some staff members, but are temporary for others.

The steel for the basketball center was erected on June 10, 2008 and completed the following week, while crews continued working to clear the interior of the Fieldhouse.

A new hardwood basketball practice court was built in the Sports Complex and completed at the beginning of the Fall semester.

The official Groundbreaking Ceremony for the Fieldhouse expansion and renovation project took place on October 6, 2007.

Construction is progressing on the basketball center which will house state-of-the-art facilities for the men's and women's basketball programs.

PRACTICE FACILITY

As part of the comprehensive expansion and renovation project, the Hawks now have a new practice facility in the Sports Complex. Both the SJU men's and women's basketball teams will use this facility for daily practice this season, as construction continues on the Fieldhouse expansion and renovation.

New Basketball Arena to be Named for Alumnus Michael J. Hagan '85

Alumni Memorial Fieldhouse, home to Saint Joseph's University basketball since 1949, will be renamed for Michael J. Hagan '85 at the conclusion of a multi-year expansion and renovation project which began in the fall 2007. Hagan, chairman and former chief executive officer of Horsham-based NutriSystem, Inc., and his wife Joyce are contributing $10 million as the lead benefactors for the most comprehensive enhancement of athletic facilities in Saint Joseph's history.

The Hagan gift is the third eight-figure donation announced by Saint Joseph's in the past two years. Previously, James J. Maguire '58 and Brian Duperreault '69 each contributed $10 million in support of the University's purchase of the Episcopal Academy property.

"We are truly blessed to have such outstanding philanthropic support," stated Saint Joseph's President Timothy R. Lannon, S.J. "Not only is it an affirmation of the mission of the University, but it speaks to the unmatched personal commitment of these extraordinary individuals."

"Mike Hagan is a success story and a singular example of the Jesuit tradition of giving back. His involvement as an alumnus, University Trustee, and now major benefactor is one of humility and selfless action. This gift allows Saint Joseph's to preserve an important part of its history while at the same time modernizing a facility of which all Hawks can be proud."

A resident of Newtown, Pa., Hagan received a B.S. in accounting from Saint Joseph's and also played on the men's golf team. He was chairman of Malvern-based Verticalnet, Inc., before assuming control of NutriSystem in 2002. Forbes magazine named Hagan its 2006

Entrepreneur of the Year after NutriSystem earned the No. 1 ranking on the Forbes list of America's "Best 200 Small Companies."

"There has always been a dream that one day there would be athletic facilities to match the level of passion we all share for this great University," said Associate Vice President and Director of Athletics Don DiJulia. "Today, thanks to the generous commitments of some very special alumni — Mike Hagan, in particular — that dream is about to be realized."

2008-09 OUTLOOK

2008-09 PREVIEW

Saint Joseph's returned to the NCAA Tournament in 2007-08 as a resilient group battled through a rollercoaster season to reach the Atlantic 10 championship game and earn the program's fifth NCAA bid under head coach Phil Martelli.

The squad was a balanced one with four double-figure scorers, paced by a pair of seniors – Pat Calathes and Rob Ferguson – who upped their level of play for their final seasons.

Heading into 2008-09, the Hawks have three starters back from that team, including one of the Atlantic 10's top players in Ahmad Nivins. But to Martelli, that doesn't mean too much, unless the Hawks don't develop individually.

"Improvement, improvement, improvement – and I'm talking about individual guys. Each guy has got to get better, even the returning starters," said the coach, now entering his 14th season. "To me, it's not any one guy or any aspect of our game. It's a total improvement that's needed. Because where we are today, or where we were at the end of last year, that won't be good enough."

But with the three starters back in the fold – Nivins, Tasheed Carr and Darrin Govens – along with sixth man Garrett Williamson, the Hawks do have a core group that battled the ups and downs of last season, and can use that experience to their benefit.

"I think what the players can take away from last season is the idea of balance and how balanced play allowed all of us to achieve. Also, the idea of being down, as we were late in the year and the idea of fighting through with regard to the A-10 Tournament," said Martelli. "I hope that they took with them the disappointment of not winning the A-10 championship – of getting there and not finishing the job. To me, all of those things are worthwhile."

Nivins will undoubtedly be one of the keys to the Hawks' success in 2008-09. The two-time All-Atlantic 10 selection has showed his potential to dominate on numerous occasions. The

Ahmad Nivins

6-9 senior posted averages of 14.4 points and 5.8 rebounds per game, finishing second to Calathes in both categories. Nivins averaged less than eight shots per game last year, so the Hawks will need to get him the ball more this season. He'll also need to grab extra rebounds due to the departures of Calathes (7.5 rpg) and Ferguson (4.8 rpg).

"Ahmad needs to be a better rebounder. His maturity level has gotten better but that's got to continue. He's got to be in the discussion for Atlantic 10 Player of the Year," said the coach.

The starter at the point, Carr made an impact in his first year with the Hawks after transferring from Iowa State. Carr is a vocal player who earned respect for his leadership skills even before the season began when the Hawks voted him co-captain. The 6-4 senior averaged 10.8 points and 5.6 assists, which was one of the top numbers in the league. Carr showed the ability to run the offense but will be counted on to add even more scoring this year.

"Tasheed needs to be better – he needs to be a better leader, a better shooter and a better teammate," said Martelli.

Govens started every game at shooting guard and displayed a smooth stroke. Although his final average was just below 10 points (9.8), the 6-1 guard notched double digits in 16 games. The Hawks will be looking for more offense from the junior this year, and he could be one of SJU's top 3-point threats.

Williamson, who was a starter as a freshman, embraced his role as the sixth man and provided an intensity unmatched by any player on the team, especially on the defensive end. The team's best perimeter defender, Williamson was not a force offensively, but will look to reap the benefits of working hard on his shooting in the off-season.

The graduation of Calathes, Ferguson and reserve Arvydas Lidzius open up many opportunities for the young squad.

Sophomore Idris Hilliard will have the chance to earn a spot in the frontcourt. A good rebounder and inside scorer, the 6-7 forward saw action in every game but one last season.

Senior Edwin Lashley and sophomore Charoy Bentley will each be looking for more playing time in the backcourt and could find it if they can provide consistent perimeter shooting. Junior walk-on C.J. Brown provides energy and depth to the Hawks.

Martelli welcomes a unique group of five freshmen, each of whom brings different strengths and skills to the Hawks.

Chris Prescott, a 6-2 guard from Northwest Catholic High School in Connecticut, is a high-scoring perimeter shooter (22.0 ppg) who could help the Hawks immediately. Prescott was a four-year starter and earned All-State honors twice.

"Chris was an extraordinarily well-coached player in high school. He has a glint in his eye that I like from that guard spot. He reminds me a little of Terrell Myers (SJU 1994-97)," said Martelli. "Chris has very good leadership ability and he's hopefully going to help us with long-distance shooting, which will be a question mark with this team."

Bryant Irwin, a 6-8 forward from Bridgeport High School was West Virginia's Gatorade Player of the Year. With an impressive 31.0 points and 11.0 rebounds as a senior, the All-State First Team selection is a versatile player who could help in a variety of ways.

"Bryant has a combination of inside-outside skills. Whether he's big enough for those skills to provide an impact, we have to find that out. Certainly we're going to look at his ability to guard at this level," said Martelli.

A.J. Rogers is a 6-6 forward from St. Anthony, the nation's top-ranked program in 2008 that posted a 32-0 record. A fiercely competitive player from Rosedale, N.Y., Rogers averaged 7.0

2008-09 PREVIEW

points and 8.0 rebounds, but did all of the small things for the country's best high school team.

"A.J. is coming here with a solid foundation that has no cracks. We're going to expect him to be a face-up defender and face-up offensive player who shares the ball," said Martelli.

Temi Adebayo is a 6-10 center from the Montrose Christian program that has produced numerous Division I players, including 2008 SJU graduate Arvydas Lidzius and 2007 NCAA Player of the Year Kevin Durant. Having come to the U.S. from Nigeria in 2007, he saw very limited action as a senior due to a medical condition. A player with true "upside," Martelli feels he has tremendous untapped potential, although he has shown impressive shot-blocking ability already.

"Temi is like clay and we hopefully will be able to develop him into something special," said the coach.

Mike Auriemma joins the squad as a walk-on. The 6-1 guard played at East Catholic High School in Connecticut, while spending last year at The Hun School in New Jersey. Son of Hall of Fame women's basketball coach Geno Auriemma, he averaged 20 points as a senior at East Catholic while earning All-State First Team honors. Auriemma will add depth and a solid work ethic in the backcourt.

"Mike is truly a coach's son. He loves the challenge that he will be embarking upon," Martelli said.

Todd O'Brien, a 6-11 center, joins the program after transferring from Bucknell University. O'Brien, from Garden Spot High School (Pa.), will practice with the Hawks this season and have three years of eligibility beginning in 2009-10.

Although it's too early to tell which players will step up and fill the roles, Martelli doesn't see any changes in the style that has characterized Saint Joseph's basketball.

"Balance is certainly going to be a style of play for us. We need five guys on the floor who can score the ball. I think we can be better defensively, and we need to be better defensively. We need to have a balance between offense and defense – we're not going to be out-shooting people, we need to be outplaying people. The style for us stays the same – to be highly competitive, share the ball, take your shot when it's available and defend to the best of your ability," explained Martelli.

The schedule will be challenging once again and will be highlighted by SJU's first trip to the 2008 EA Sports Maui Invitational. The Hawks will be part of a top-notch field that includes NCAA Final Four participant North Carolina, NCAA Tournament teams Indiana, Notre Dame, Oregon and Texas, along with Alabama and host Chaminade. The Hawks potentially have 10 teams on the '08-09 slate that participated in the 2008 NCAA Tournament, with games scheduled against Cornell, Siena, Xavier and Villanova.

Another unique challenge for the Hawks is that all of their 2008-09 home games will be played at the Palestra, due to the renovation and expansion of Alumni Memorial Fieldhouse. Saint Joseph's is familiar with the Palestra, however, usually hosting five or six games there every season.

"Our schedule is going to put us in contention to compete in the Atlantic 10. If you can compete in the Atlantic 10, then you're a team that is talked about nationally," said the coach.

Saint Joseph's will rely on a bevy of strengths that will be necessary to succeed in 2008-09.

"Basically, we have a group that knows how to pick itself up off the mat," Martelli explained. "We came off of a year with no postseason and made the NCAA Tournament. We were in, then we were out of the NCAA Tournament, and then back in again, so the players certainly picked themselves up off the mat.

"I think we also have a team that would be labeled as observant. They saw Pat Calathes struggle for two years and then get to be a first team All-League player. They saw a guy like Rob Ferguson, who had to come outside of his character so that the group's greater good could be served. Those things are positives because we do have an observant group. This is a group that, including the freshmen, you get the feeling that they're appreciative of being here."

Conversely, Martelli points out the team's weaknesses as areas to address prior to the season, as well as during it.

"We know that it'll be inexperience," Martelli conceded. "Certainly our other weaknesses will be the rebounding and where it's going to come from, along with outside shooting. Pat and Ferg were good rebounders and good shooters. But that's the beauty of this program. And the excitement's going to be in who seizes the opportunity," said Martelli.

Martelli and the Hawks will rely on their seniors to bring along the newcomers into the Saint Joseph's tradition. A tough schedule and a full slate of games at the historic Palestra should leave Hawk fans with plenty to be excited about in 2008-09.

Q & A WITH PHIL MARTELLI

The team got back into postseason last year. What can this group take from that experience?

There are several things that occurred. One is the idea of balance and how balanced play allowed all of us to achieve. The idea of being down, knocked down, as we were late in the year. The idea of fighting through with regard to the A-10 Tournament. I hope that they took with them the disappointment of not winning the A-10 Championship – of getting there and not finishing the job. To me, all of those things are worthwhile.

What has to happen for this team to be successful?

Improvement, improvement, improvement. I'm talking about individual guys. Each guy has got to be better. If you start with Ahmad (Nivins), Tasheed (Carr) and Darrin (Govens) because they started every game – they have to be better. Ahmad's got to be a much more consistent rebounder, and a double figure rebounder. Tasheed has to be a daily learner. Darrin has to be a daily worker. Garrett obviously embraced his role but he's got to become a shooter. And not just a shot maker, but he's got to become a shot taker. Idris, Charoy and Edwin didn't get much of a chance – but there will be chances there. The freshmen obviously are in college basketball for the first time.

To me, it's not any one guy or any one aspect of our game, it's a total improvement. Because where we are today, or where we were at the end of last year, that won't be good enough.

What style of play will evolve with this group?

Certainly balance is going to be a style of play. Five guys on the floor who can score the ball. I think we can be better defensively and we need to be better defensively. We need to have a balance between offense and defense – we're not going to be outshooting people, we need to be outplaying people. Style for us stays the same – be highly competitive, share the ball, take your shot when it's available and defend to the best of your ability.

What are the strengths?

Our strengths are that we have a group that knows how to pick itself up off the mat. We came off of a year with no postseason and made the NCAA Tournament. We were in the NCAA Tournament, we were out of the NCAA Tournament, so the team certainly picked themselves up off the mat. I think we also have a team that would be labeled as observant. So they saw Pat Calathes struggle for two years and then get to be a first team All-League player. They saw a guy like Rob Ferguson, who had to come outside of his character so that the group's greater good could be served. Those things are positives because we do have an observant group. This is a group that, including the freshmen, give you the feeling that they're appreciative of being here.

How about the weaknesses?

We know that it'll be inexperience. Certainly our other weaknesses will be where the rebounding is going to come from – Pat and Ferg were good rebounders. One of the weaknesses will be outside shooting because Pat and Ferg were both good shooters.

But to me, that's the beauty of this program. There's an opportunity. And the excitement's going to be in who seizes the opportunity.

You always talk about the importance of seniors and we see what happened last year with a strong group. What do you expect from the seniors this year?

The seniors need to be better. Ahmad needs to be a better rebounder. His maturity level has gotten better – he deals with disappointment better. But that's got to continue. He's got to be in the discussion for Player of the Year in the Atlantic 10. I think with Tasheed, he needs to be better. The honor he received from his team of being voted co-captain – he can be a better leader. He can be a better shooter, a better teammate. Better for Edwin would be better opportunity – and that's for him to earn.

Who made the most improvement last year?

Garrett was our most improved player because he was given a new role and he fit to his role almost exactly.

What's your goal with the schedule?

The schedule, if you go back in time, is what has been established. Our schedule is going to put us in contention to compete in the Atlantic 10. If you can compete in the Atlantic 10, then you're a team that is talked about nationally. So the goal to me sitting here today is not postseason, but the goal is to be better tomorrow. The schedule stays to a standard. We play on the road because in the A-10 you have to be successful on the road. We play different styles because in the A-10 you have to play different styles. All of that goes into planning the schedule.

son participant and a key player on the national scene, while earning his place among the top coaches in the school's storied history.

The 2007-08 Hawks reached the Atlantic 10 Championship game for the third time in four years and earned the program's 19th bid to the NCAA Tournament, and Martelli's fifth. The 11th-seeded Hawks fell to sixth-seeded Oklahoma in the NCAA First Round while ending the year at 21-13.

Martelli reached a significant milestone in 2006-07, when he surpassed Hall of Famer Jack Ramsay for second place on the school's all-time list for wins. His 13-year career mark now stands at 261-152, while he ranks fourth in career winning percentage (.633) among SJU coaches. Setting the school record for wins in a season (30) in 2004, Martelli has guided SJU to 20 or more victories six times in 13 seasons. More impressively, his teams have gone 180-81 in the past eight seasons, an average of 23 wins per year. He is 132-76 in Atlantic 10 play, which is the most conference wins for any active coach in the A-10. Martelli has also been at his best when it counts the most as his 17 postseason wins (6 NCAA, 11 NIT) are the most in school history, ahead of Ramsay's 12. Martelli ranks first among Hawk coaches with a .653 postseason winning percentage (17-9) and has taken SJU to the postseason in seven of the last eight years, and nine times in his 13 seasons.

Guiding a young squad in 2006-07, the Hawks went 18-14, marking the eighth time that he led them to 18 or more wins, but SJU missed postseason play to end a streak of six consecutive appearances.

Martelli turned in another top-notch coaching performance in 2005-06, as the Hawks went from a 10-12 record in February to win the final five games of the regular season, and three straight in the conference tournament, to reach the Atlantic 10 championship for the second year in a row, falling just one point short of the title. The Hawks were rewarded with their sixth consecutive postseason bid, but saw the season come to an end in the NIT Second Round, closing with a 19-14 mark.

Martelli's effort was similar to the previous season where he turned in perhaps a more remarkable coaching job than in 2003-04 when he was the consensus National Coach of the Year. Faced with the loss of two NBA first-round draft picks from the '03-04 squad that went 30-2, the 2004-05 Hawks struggled early on, but Martelli reworked the team's style of play to guide SJU to 21 wins in the calendar year of 2005 to finish 24-12. Saint Joseph's posted the conference's best record (14-2) and won its fifth straight regular-season title to tie the league record. The Hawks garnered the top seed in the conference tournament for the second year in a row and reached the championship game. He was named the Atlantic 10 Coach of the Year for the second straight season and the fourth time in his career. The Hawks earned their fifth consecutive postseason bid and made an exciting six-game run in the NIT, falling on a last-second shot in the championship game. It marked the second time in his career that he guided SJU to the NIT title game.

Martelli's efforts and the success of the SJU program have been recognized on a consistent basis. In fact, he has earned a Coach of the Year award, whether it be a city, conference, or regional honor, in six of his 13 seasons.

In the summer of 2005, Martelli served as the head coach of the USA Men's U21 World Championship Team, which competed at the FIBA U21 World Championship in Argentina, and earned a fifth-place finish. It was the coach's third assignment with USA Basketball, having served as a USA assistant coach for gold-medal winning teams at both the 2001 FIBA World Championship for Young Men and the 1998 Goodwill Games.

In 2003-04, Martelli guided a focused and unselfish squad that became the most compelling story in college basketball. The Hawks went undefeated in the regular season, reached the pinnacle as the top-ranked team in the nation and earned the school's first-ever number-one seed in the NCAA Tournament, advancing to the Elite Eight. Jameer Nelson was the consensus National Player of the Year and with teammate Delonte West, were both first-round selections in the NBA Draft. The Hawks became the first team since 1990-91 to go through the regular season without a loss (27-0). SJU opened the season ranked 12th in the polls and moved up throughout the year, taking the top spot on March 8, 2004, for the first time ever. SJU finished fifth for its highest final ranking since 1966. It was a school-record fourth straight season, and fifth in Martelli's tenure, that the Hawks were ranked in the Associated Press poll.

Martelli guided SJU to its fourth NCAA appearance in nine seasons, and its first back-to-back berths since 1982. The top-seeded Hawks reached the Elite Eight for the first time since 1981 before falling to Oklahoma State in a heartbreaker, 64-62.

He joined Nelson to sweep the National Coach and Player of the Year awards, marking one of the few times in history that the top player and coach were from the same school. Martelli won the 2004 Naismith Award, the Henry Iba Award (USBWA), the inaugural Adolph Rupp Cup, the Coach of the Year awards from both Associated Press and CBS/Chevrolet, and the NABC Co-Coach of the Year award. He was the Atlantic 10 Coach of the Year for the third time and a repeat winner of the Harry Litwack Big 5 Coach of the Year award.

The Hawks also won their second outright Big 5 title and their fourth straight Atlantic 10 regular season crown. The squad was the recipient of the prestigious Wanamaker Award, given to the team or athlete which brings the greatest credit to the city of Philadelphia, and was named the Team of the Year by the Philadelphia Sportswriters Association.

One of the more colorful coaches in the nation, Martelli's personality, wit and accessibility have always made him a media favorite. His popularity grew to an even higher level in 2004, as the Hawks remained unbeaten and the coach was besieged by media requests from all over the country. Martelli remained as accommodating as ever and the Saint Joseph's story was well documented by the Philadelphia press and told by countless media outlets nationwide.

Phil Martelli continues his climb up the charts, putting himself among the Hawks' all-time winningest coaches. In 2006-07, Martelli surpassed Basketball Hall of Famer Jack Ramsay for victories at SJU and now ranks second.

Martelli has added a new title to his résumé, that of "author." The coach co-wrote a book, "Don't Call Me Coach: A Lesson Plan for Life" with Harold Gullan, Ph.D, which was published in the fall of 2007.

Martelli's commitment to Saint Joseph's is equaled by the University's commitment to him. The coach agreed to a new contract prior to the 2003-04 season that would extend his tenure through at least the 2009-10 campaign. Following the thrilling run in '03-04, the University extended the coach's contract through the 2011-12 season. That commitment was taken a step further when prior to the start of the 2008-09 campaign, Martelli's contract was extended through 2015-16.

Martelli is not only passionate for coaching, but also for his work in the community. He is one of the leaders of the Philadelphia chapter of Coaches vs. Cancer, as the coaches from the city's six Division I schools strive to raise awareness and funding to defeat the disease. The group has dedicated themselves to becoming the highest fundraising coaches'

PHIL MARTELLI

Phil Martelli and Jameer Nelson collected all of the national Coach of the Year and Player of the Year Awards in 2004. The climax of the whirlwind awards tour was Nelson capturing the John R. Wooden Award and having the opportunity to meet coaching legend John Wooden at the awards ceremony in Los Angeles.

group in the country and are on their way to reaching that goal. They were honored at the 2004 NCAA Final Four with the Coaches vs. Cancer Champion Award presented by the National Association of Basketball Coaches and with the Community Service Award from the Philadelphia Sports Congress. Martelli also serves on the Coaches vs. Cancer National Council, which received the Centennial Award from the Fox Chase Cancer Center.

The coach has received numerous honors for his community work, highlighted by two honorary degrees. Martelli's alma mater, Widener University, bestowed upon him one of its highest honors on May 15, 2004 with an honorary doctorate in public service for his "altruistic work in the community and his positive influence as a teacher, coach and role model." Martelli then delivered the commencement address to the more than 750 graduates. On May 21, 2006, he addressed over 400 graduates at Cabrini College and received an honorary doctor of humane letters degree in recognition of his "extraordinary career and service to the community."

He has also been named the "Citizen of the Year" by the March of Dimes in 2004, was inducted into the CYO Hall of Fame for the Archdiocese of Philadelphia, and honored by the National Adoption Center to name a few. In 2006, Martelli was inducted into the Hall of Fame at Kennedy-Kenrick High School (formerly Bishop Kenrick), where he coached.

Martelli views himself as an ambassador for the University and takes the role very seriously. He is one of the most sought after public speakers in Philadelphia, with an appeal that stretches even further outside the area. Making countless appearances year-round, he finds the time for many organizations, no matter how large or small.

Martelli has served as the honorary chairperson for the Centennial celebration of Ken-Crest, the largest community-based service provider for children and adults with disabilities in Southeastern Pennsylvania and Delaware.

He shows his commitment to the game of basketball by serving on the Board of Directors of the National Basketball Coaches Association and participating as a voter for the ESPN/USA Today Coaches Poll. Martelli was appointed by the NCAA to the Division I Men's Basketball Academic Enhancement Group. The group of coaches and university officials from across the country is charged with developing strategies to enhance academic performance and graduation rates in Division I men's basketball.

After 10 years as an assistant at Saint Joseph's, Martelli was named the 14th coach in school history on July 20, 1995, and was just the third non-alumnus to follow in the storied tradition of SJU coaches.

Martelli burst onto the scene in 1995-96 and took SJU to the NIT Championship game as a rookie head coach, becoming just the fifth first-year head coach to take a team to the tournament's Final Four since the field expanded to 32 teams in 1980. He surpassed Ramsay's feat, who led his first SJU team to third place in the 1956 tournament. Martelli led the '95-96 Hawks, which had lost the school's all-time leading scorer and a 1,000-point, 1,000-rebound performer, to a 19-13 record, tying him for third place with Jim Lynam (1978-79) for victories by a first-year SJU coach.

Expectations for 1996-97 were for a winning campaign. And after a disheartening season-opening rout at Duke (89-60) in the first round of the Preseason NIT, Martelli and his charges regrouped and turned in one of the best seasons in the program's history. The team's accomplishments, most of which have now been surpassed by the '03-04 team, included a then-record-tying 26 wins (seven losses), a final national ranking of 12th by the Associated Press and 17th by CNN/USA Today. The squad also put together a 10-game winning streak and three wins over Top 25 teams while winning both the Atlantic 10 regular season and tournament titles. The Hawks advanced to the NCAA Sweet 16 before suffering a loss to defending national champion Kentucky.

With the team's success came individual accolades for the second-year coach. Martelli garnered Atlantic 10 Coach of the Year honors as well as District Coach of the Year by the USBWA, NABC, Eastern Basketball and Basketball Times. He was named the Eastern College Coach of the Year and co-recipient of the Big 5 award.

Martelli's third year at the helm was a true test of his character. The season started with the loss of one of his key players to academics and two highly-touted recruits to NCAA initial eligibility rules. Despite the depleted lineup, the coach kept his team competitive throughout the season, as the Hawks struggled to find wins while facing one of the most demanding schedules in school history. They totaled 11 wins, but the "never say die" spirit of SJU was evidenced by the team holding leads over five nationally-ranked teams late in the second half.

In 1998-99, the Hawk mentor faced perhaps his toughest challenge as a head coach, guiding a team that started a school-record four newcomers through a tough non-conference slate and the always imposing A-10 battles. Martelli and SJU got off to a strong start, defeating No. 21 Tennessee and winning the Cable Car Classic en route to a 9-7 record at mid-January. Youth finally caught up to the Hawks, however, as the team experienced a nine-game losing streak and finished the season with a 12-18 overall mark.

The 1999-2000 season included many highlights as the coach guided the team to a stunning 62-59 win over then-No. 5 Temple at The Palestra on February 29. It was Martelli's first win over Temple and the program's first win over a Top 5 team since February, 1984 (No. 2 DePaul). The team's 13-16 record was deceiving as the Hawks played a schedule ranked 32nd toughest in the nation.

Picked by most as a middle-of-the-pack Atlantic 10 team in 2000-01, SJU started strong, posting a 7-3 record in its first 10 games, and finished even stronger, going 14-2 in the conference to win the single division A-10 regular season title. Overall, the Hawks again tied the school-record for wins, compiling a 26-7 mark. The team moved into the Top 25 in both major polls in February, and was ranked in the final polls (No. 22 AP; No. 24 ESPN/USA Today).

Despite its ranking, and the presence of one of the nation's finest backcourts in junior Marvin O'Connor and National Freshman of the Year Jameer Nelson, SJU earned an at-large bid but only a number-nine seed. The Hawks responded by downing eighth-seeded Georgia Tech, 66-62, in the first round of the West Regional in San Diego. The team then showed its true mettle, battling top seed Stanford in one of the most exciting games of the NCAA Tournament before falling, 90-83.

As in 1996-97, Martelli picked up much-deserved hardware following the season. He was named Coach of the Year by the Atlantic 10, NABC (District III) and Philadelphia's Basketball Writers (Eastern College Coach of the Year). Nationally, he was one of three finalists for the national Coach of the Year by ESPN the Magazine and one of

Martelli the Author

In 2007, Phil Martelli added a new title to his résumé - that of "author". Martelli came out with his first book, entitled Don't Call Me Coach: A Lesson Plan for Life. The book is co-written by the Hawks' coach and Harold Gullan, Ph.D.

In the book, Martelli passes on what he has learned from his own rich experience, which includes over 30 years of coaching at the high school and college levels. One of America's most colorful, outspoken, and successful coaches, Martelli compresses his three decades of experience into a 10-point "lesson plan for life" that will benefit anyone, no matter what the challenges may be. He speaks equally to teachers, parents, educators, and business executives - in short, to anyone who plays the role of coach in daily life.

Gullan, a noted historian and sports fan, is also the author of The Upset That Wasn't, Faith of Our Mothers, First Fathers, and Jumping Through Hoops.

The book, which includes a foreword from Pennsylvania Governor Ed Rendell, was published by Camino Books of Philadelphia (www.caminobooks.com).

20 finalists for the Naismith College Basketball Coach of the Year.

In the 2001-02 preseason, the Hawks were ranked as high as eighth by Sports Illustrated and 10th by both major polls. SJU stayed in the polls until mid-December when three straight losses (North Carolina, Georgia State and Gonzaga), all coinciding with an injury to All-American guard Marvin O'Connor, saw the team fall from the rankings. Saint Joseph's rebounded to post a 19-12 record, share the A-10 East title for Martelli's third regular-season crown, and earn the fourth postseason bid in seven years (NIT).

In 2002-03, after graduating four fifth-year seniors that compiled over 5,000 points and 2,200 rebounds, the Hawks were picked to be in the middle of the A-10 East Division. With arguably the nation's best point guard in the fold in Nelson, Martelli built the team around defense and perimeter play. The plan worked as SJU went on to lead the nation in field goal percentage defense (.372) and ranked seventh in scoring defense (59.5 ppg). The team cracked the national polls in February and ended the season with its third straight A-10 regular season title, second NCAA at-large bid in three seasons and a 23-7 record, despite a late-season injury to Delonte West.

Off the court, Martelli's lighter side is featured weekly on his HawkTalk television show, which celebrated its 10th anniversary in 2005-06. Martelli hosts the most unique coach's show in the nation, with a "Tonight Show" format. Game highlights are included, but are secondary to the jokes and humorous interviews. Named the best coach's show in college basketball by The Sporting News in 2001, HawkTalk gained a much greater audience in its third year (1998-99), with its move to Comcast SportsNet, Philadelphia's regional all-sports station. The show's viewer base grew even more in 2003-04, when national network College Sports Television first aired the show, and has continued to do so for the past five years.

Martelli has also been active coaching internationally. In addition to taking his SJU team on a 1999 tour of Italy, he has worked with USA Basketball three times, most recently as the head coach of the 2005 USA U21 World Championship Team which traveled to Argentina. He has served as an assistant coach twice, with the gold-medal winning team at the 1998 Goodwill Games in New York City, and then with the 2001 USA World Championship for Young Men team that captured the gold in Saitama, Japan, of which Jameer Nelson was a member.

A four-time Atlantic 10 (1997, 2000, 2004, 2005) and four-time USBWA District Coach of the Year (1997, 2001, 2003, 2004), Martelli is one of just three Hawk coaches to record 200 career wins, posting his milestone victory against Buffalo on March 19, 2005.

A 1976 graduate of Widener University, Martelli began his career on Hawk Hill with SJU's 1985-86 team which reached the NCAA Tournament. In his decade as an assistant, he was part of the Hawks' NIT teams in 1992-93 and 1994-95.

Prior to his arrival at SJU, Martelli spent seven years as head basketball coach at Bishop Kenrick High School in Norristown, Pa. At Kenrick, he led his team to six straight Catholic League playoff appearances, a school record, and still owns the school's all-time mark for wins with 108. His best season came in 1982, when he was named prep Coach of the Year by both the Philadelphia Inquirer and Philadelphia Daily News. He earned similar honors in 1980 and 1982 for Montgomery County from the Norristown Times Herald.

Martelli began his career as the junior varsity coach at Cardinal O'Hara High in Springfield, Pa., for the 1976-77 season. He moved on the following year to become an assistant at his alma mater, where he helped guide Widener to the NCAA Division III Final Four. After that season, he accepted the head job at Kenrick.

As a player, he was part of Widener's NCAA Tournament teams in both 1974-75 and 1975-76, serving as team co-captain as a senior. The talented point guard also set the school's single season and career assist marks.

Martelli and his wife, Judy, a former basketball player with the legendary Immaculata College teams in the 1970s, have three children. Phil, Jr., a 2003 SJU graduate, is an assistant basketball coach at Niagara University, Jimmy is an assistant coach at Robert Morris University, and Elizabeth is a senior attending Saint Joseph's.

Phil Martelli's commitment to Saint Joseph's has been equaled by the University's commitment to him. Prior to the 2008-09 season, the University extended Martelli's contract another four years through the 2015-16 season.

PHIL MARTELLI

"This was the least-talented Hawks team during the six-season run. Which didn't stop them from playing with the passion and intelligence that have become the hallmarks of St. Joe's basketball under Martelli and his coaching staff. They always devise a way to give their teams a chance... Ultimately, it is a chance many programs don't get because they are never in the fight. One way or another, the Hawks are always in the fight."

PHIL MARTELLI

Phil Martelli joined friend Geno Auriemma, the head women's coach at Connecticut, at Auriemma's induction into the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame on September 8, 2006. The duo coached together at Bishop Kenrick High School when Martelli was the head coach there early in his career. Auriemma also spent a year at Saint Joseph's, as an assistant with the women's basketball team.

Martelli received his second honorary doctorate in three years when he gave the Commencement Address at Cabrini College in 2006. His alma mater, Widener University, had previously bestowed the honor upon him in 2004.

Martelli coached the 2005 USA Men's Under 21 World Championship Team at the FIBA U21 World Championship in Argentina in August, 2005.

The 2004 winner of the Adolph Rupp Cup as the nation's top coach, Martelli was called upon to present the award to the 2006 Coach of the Year, Roy Williams of North Carolina at the 2006 Final Four in Indianapolis.

Martelli is actively involved in many charitable endeavors and lends his time to numerous groups. One of his primary commitments is to Coaches vs. Cancer, as he serves as the co-chair of the Philadelphia chapter.

Martelli's popularity with the media affords him numerous opportunities for public appearances and speaking engagements. He met author and actor Joe Gannascoli ("The Sopranos") at a special event hosted by Philadelphia radio station WPHT 1210 AM.

MARK BASS

Assistant Coach

10th Season

Mark Bass is the veteran among the Hawks' assistant coaches, now in his 10th season at his alma mater.

Bass, one of the most prolific shooters in Saint Joseph's history, joined the Hawks' staff in 1999-2000 and has been involved with teams that have made post-season appearances in seven of the last eight years, won five Atlantic 10 regular-season titles and compiled a 154-72 record in the past seven years. Nine years after he led the Hawks to the NIT Final as a player in 1996, Bass again helped SJU reach New York City and the NIT Final as a coach in 2005.

In 2005, Bass was honored with the William J. Bennett Memorial Award, recognizing dedication and loyalty to the Saint Joseph's men's basketball program. He was a co-recipient of the award with then-fellow staff member Monté Ross.

A fiery leader on the court, and two-year team captain, Bass led the Hawks to the NIT Finals in his senior season, 1995-96, and ranked second on the team with his average of 14.3 points per game. He connected for school records of 91 3-pointers and 268 attempts, season marks which were later eclipsed by Pat Carroll in 2005. A Second Team All-Big 5 selection, Bass made 225 3-pointers during his career from 1992-96, a total that ranks behind only Carroll and Marvin O'Connor. As a freshman, the guard led the Atlantic 10 Conference in free throw percentage with a school-record 86.9 percent. He also led the A-10 in 3-point percentage as a junior (.423), making him just the second Hawk player to lead the league in two different categories.

In 2001, Bass became the first member of the 1996 NIT Finalist team to be inducted into the Saint Joseph's Basketball Hall of Fame.

Upon graduation he played one season of professional basketball with the Tianjin Breakers in the Chinese Professional League in 1996-97. Following that, he served two seasons (1997-99) as an assistant coach under Max Good at Maine Central Institute, helping guide the team to back-to-back New England Prep School Championships, including a perfect 35-0 season in 1997-98.

A 1991 graduate of McCorristin High School in New Jersey and native of Trenton, Bass was named the Mercer County Player of the Year as a senior and set the all-time scoring record with 1,482 points in his career. He played for one year at Maine Central Institute, helping the squad to a 27-1 record with the lone loss coming in the New England Prep School Championship game.

Bass, who was inducted into the Mercer County CYO Hall of Fame in November, 2004, resides with his wife, Tracie, in Lawnside, N.J.

"Mark has developed a confidence that allows him to shine on a daily basis, whether dealing with recruiting, scouting or on-floor coaching. Mark has an aura that benefits our players and program."

DAVID DUDA

Assistant Coach 3rd Season

David Duda is in his third year on the Saint Joseph's staff, joining the Hawks after a highly-successful coaching stint in the Division III ranks.

Duda came to SJU in 2006 after eight years as head coach at Widener University, where he compiled a 143-68 record, with two MAC Commonwealth Conference championships and three trips to the NCAA Division III Tournament. He also served as Widener's athletic director since April 2003, overseeing the operation of the University's athletics program with 20 varsity teams.

Widener enjoyed its greatest success under his leadership in 2005-06, when the team finished 23-6, won the Commonwealth Conference regular-season title and made the school's first NCAA Sweet 16 appearance since 1987. Duda earned Coach of the Year honors for both the Commonwealth Conference and the NABC Mid-Atlantic Region.

Duda led the Pioneers to a record-breaking 24-4 season in 1999-00 and was recognized as the conference and Mid-Atlantic Coach of the Year.

A 1988 graduate of Spring Garden College, where he was a two-time honorable mention All-American, Duda began his coaching career as the top assistant to Herb Magee at Philadelphia University. During those seven seasons the Rams had their most successful period in school history, and Philadelphia University was the winningest Division II school in the country during that span with a 171-35 record.

He moved on to be the head coach at Delaware Valley College in 1997 for two seasons. Duda turned around a team which had been 0-23, leading it to a 12-12 mark for the first non-losing season in 11 years. He earned the Freedom Conference Coach of the Year award in 1998. His career coaching record in 10 seasons is 159-99.

Duda's connection with the Hawks' head coach dates back to 1981 when he played for Martelli on the varsity team at Bishop Kenrick High School (1981-84).

Duda lives in Collegeville, Pa., with his wife Barbara and children, Danielle (10) and David (7).

"David can certainly be labeled as a workaholic. He is an organizational genius and a developing star in the coaching ranks."

GEOFF ARNOLD

Assistant Coach

1st Season

Geoff Arnold returns to his alma mater and Phil Martelli's staff, rejoining the Hawks in 2008-09 after spending seven seasons as the associate head coach at Drexel University.

Arnold was instrumental in Drexel's recruiting efforts that helped them reach the postseason four times in seven seasons, which included a 23-9 record in 2006-07.

The 1986 Saint Joseph's graduate previously served as an assistant coach with the Hawks from 1993 to 1996. That stint included one year with Martelli, who was in his first season (1995-96) as head coach. During that campaign, the Hawks went 26-6 and reached the NIT Championship game.

Arnold left Saint Joseph's in 1996 to join former Hawk teammate Bruiser Flint at the University of Massachusetts, serving on Flint's staff for five years. He then returned to Philadelphia in 2001 when Flint was named head coach at Drexel.

Arnold, originally from Sharon Hill, Pa. and Darby Township High School, was a senior tri-captain for the 1985-86 Saint Joseph's team that won the Atlantic 10 Championship, recorded 26 wins and earned a bid to the NCAA Tournament. During his senior season, which was Martelli's first as an assistant coach at SJU, he averaged 8.9 points and led the team with 134 assists. Arnold notched 346 assists in his career, a number which ranks among the top 15 in school history.

"Geoff is a true Hawk in the way he represents the University on and off the court. His desire for the program to reach the top in the A-10, the Big 5 and college basketball drives him on a daily basis."

- Phil Martelli

Upon graduating from Saint Joseph's in 1986, Arnold played for the Wildwood Aces of the United States Basketball League and then served as an assistant coach for one season. After one year out of basketball, he became a full-time assistant with the Hawks in 1992-93, working on John Griffin's staff for three seasons.

He was inducted into the Saint Joseph's Basketball Hall of Fame in 1992.

Arnold and his wife, Stephanie, reside in Philadelphia with their 11-year old daughter, Gabrielle.

The native of East Aurora, N.Y., is pursuing a master's degree from SJU in training and organizational development.

THE HAWK

One of the most famous mascots in college sports, the Saint Joseph's Hawk has been flapping its wings for 52 years.

The Hawk, which celebrated its golden anniversary in 2005-06, is best known for staying in constant motion by flapping its wings throughout every basketball game and representing the Saint Joseph's motto, "The Hawk Will Never Die."

Jim Brennan originated the idea for a hawk as mascot during the 1954-55 season. Brennan, an ex-Marine and SJU cheerleader, at first wanted to secure an actual hawk, but later switched to the costume idea. The student government raised the 120 dollars needed to buy the initial costume, which Brennan donned for three years. He made his debut as the Hawk on January 4, 1956, a 69-56 win over La Salle at the Palestra. Since then, and including this season, a total of 31 SJU students have donned the costume. Sara Brennan in 2000-01 has been the only woman thus far to serve as the mascot. The Hawk has not missed a men's basketball game since that first season in 1955-56.

In addition to the constant flapping, the Hawk is also recognized by its "flying" in figure eights around the court during timeouts. Years ago, ESPN used a "flap-o-meter" on the national telecast of a Saint Joseph's game to estimate that the Hawk flaps its wings 3,500 times during a regulation game.

The Hawk is unique because it is one of the few mascots in the nation that travels to every game, and the student who holds the position gains a full scholarship. The student, who is selected through an interview process during the previous spring semester, also serves as a team manager for the men's basketball team and travels with the squad.

The most decorated mascot in the country, The Hawk has garnered numerous accolades in its 50-year history. The Sporting News, Sports Illustrated, Sports Illustrated for Kids, Street & Smith's Basketball Yearbook and ESPN College Basketball magazine have selected it as the nation's top mascot. Eastern Basketball tabbed The Hawk as the Atlantic 10 Conference's best mascot, while The Hawk won a "Best of Philly" award from Philadelphia Magazine in 2003-04. More recently, The Hawk was selected as a nominee for the 2008 Mascot Hall of Fame.

Saint Joseph's athletic teams have been recognized with the nickname "Hawks" since 1929. At that time, the school's yearbook editor, Charlie Dunn, initiated a contest among the student body for a symbol. More than 100 submissions were narrowed to two, with "Hawks" winning out over "Grenadiers" (World War I soldiers who specialized in tossing grenades) by a slim margin in the final vote.

John Gallagher '31, a catcher on the Saint Joseph's baseball team, submitted the winning suggestion. He won a sweater with a special Saint Joseph's monogram for selecting the winning name. According to the student annual, the name was appropriate because it typified "the fighting spirit of our crimson and gray athletes and it is suggestive of the aerial attack which has made our football team famous." Ironically, football was discontinued at Saint Joseph's following the 1939 season.

But it has been the connection with the storied tradition of the Saint Joseph's men's and women's basketball programs that has given The Hawk mascot its prominence on the national level, making it one of the most recognized mascots in college athletics.

Jim Miller
2006-07 thru 2007-08

Tim Klarich
SJU

Tim Klarich will serve as the Saint Joseph's University Hawk mascot for the 2008-09 season. He becomes the 31st student to represent the University as its men's basketball mascot, in the 53rd year of one of college basketball's most famous traditions.

A graduate of St. Joseph's Prep, Klarich has served as a student worker in the SJU Men's Basketball office and as a team manager for the past few years. He is involved with the American Marketing Association and has volunteered with the Gesu Reading Enrichment Program and Saint Joseph's Hand in Hand project.

His older brother, Steve, served as The Hawk for two seasons in 2001-02 and 2002-03.

A native of Philadelphia, Klarich is a senior marketing major.
