2010-11 PREVIEW

The Saint Joseph's men's basketball team will take to the court in 2010-11 with a new look and a youthful roster, which should provide plenty of excitement for Hawk fans. With the departure of a few reserve players, and starters Darrin Govens and Garrett Williamson to graduation, head coach Phil Martelli will retool with six returning players and a recruiting class that is one of the Hawks' most anticipated in recent years.

The Hawks had a down year in 2009-10, especially by the standards that Martelli has established for the program. But the coach has turned last year's results into motivation for the upcoming year and the returning Hawks have embraced the task, showing intensity and enthusiasm in off-season workouts. And although three starters return - Idris Hilliard, Todd O'Brien and Justin Crosgile - Martelli expects strong competition among all six returning players and the newcomers.

"One of our strengths this season is that we have been humbled. Another strength is that we have healthy competition at every position. We've also got an infusion of talent which is definitely a plus," said the coach, now in his 16th season. "But that talent will be inexperienced, so we have to prevent that from becoming a weakness. And from a basketball point of view, and this is unusual for me to say this, we need dramatically improved guard play."

Leading the Hawks' returnees are frontcourt players Hilliard and O'Brien. Hilliard is SJU's top returning scorer with a 10.2 average and will be looked upon to provide leadership to the young group. "Idris, like all of them, needs to be a better player. That's not knocking him. But I know it gnaws away at him that we haven't made the postseason. My responsibility is to show him how to express that to his teammates in the proper way," Martelli said.

O'Brien, a 7-foot junior, was last year's leading rebounder with 6.3 boards per game in his first season with the Hawks and will be needed to increase those numbers. "Todd has a tremendous work ethic and an intense desire to please. He is a wonderful teammate. We need his physical presence on the backboard and in the lane defensively," stated Martelli.

Carl Baptiste (2.1 ppg) saw action in 30 games his freshman year and will challenge for time in the frontcourt. "Carl has the skills to be a multi-dimensional forward in the Atlantic 10. He had flashes as a freshman. The challenge is to slow him down so his abilities can shine. I'm expecting a huge jump from Carl this year," said Martelli.

Sophomore guards Crosgile and Carl Jones should be key players with a year of extensive playing time under their belts. Crosgile got a late start to the season because of pre-season hand surgery but made his debut in the sixth game. He worked his way into the starting lineup by the beginning of A-10 play and started the final 19 games at point guard, averaging 6.7 points.

"Justin clearly demonstrated the importance of the off-season," Martelli said. "He didn't have a productive pre-season and then got hurt. So to me, this Fall is really his first off-season to improve. Looking ahead, I am interested in seeing how he is going to use those minutes and that experience that he gained last year."

The flashier Jones was the team's fourth leading scorer with his 9.6 average and exhibited a knack for scoring from long-range. "Carl is another guy who came in thinking that college basketball is easy but after having a dramatic impact in the first three games, he got knocked down in the next few. I've clearly seen a more humbled guy in the off-season workouts and being humbled is not a bad thing," said the coach. "In my mind, he and Justin have the most room to grow and I put my greatest expectations on both of them to do that."

Senior Charoy Bentley (2.3 ppg) will add depth and experience to the backcourt in his final season. "I always count on the seniors, and Charoy and Idris are going to have to come outside of themselves this year. They have a good example from a few years ago when Rob Ferguson did that and led his team to the (2008) NCAA Tournament. Charoy and Idris are going to have to become leaders in order for this to work," said the coach.

Saint Joseph's recruiting class was ranked 25th in the nation by MaxPreps. The talented newcomers include the Pennsylvania Player of the Year, C.J. Aiken (6-9, F) and Louisiana products Langston Galloway (6-2, G) and Patrick Swilling, Jr. (6-2, G), who all helped their teams to state titles. New Jersey standouts Ronald Roberts, Jr. (6-7, F) and Daryus Quarles (6-6, F) round out the athletic group of freshmen who are all expected to contribute immediately.

Idris Hilliard

2010-11 PREVIEW

Carl Jones and Charoy Bentley

"We are upgrading our roster in terms of athletic ability, and that's all well and good, but people can't put too much on them," said Martelli. Aside from their athletic ability, the thing that jumps out to me about this class is that three of them won state championships, one played for a state title (Roberts) and another one (Quarles) would've won a title had he been able to play last year for his high school."

"I am much more interested in the fact that their teams achieved success than their individual accolades. And now the goal is to get each of these individuals going in a positive direction immediately so that when they take the floor they're never using their college inexperience as any kind of excuse."

Aiken averaged 17 points, 10 rebounds and six blocked shots for state champion Plymouth-Whitemarsh while earning All-State honors. "C.J. has basketball gifts that are extraordinary. He's a wonderful passer, he's a comfortable long-range shooter, and has unreal timing to block shots," Martelli said. "C.J. plays almost without emotion - he doesn't have any highs and doesn't have any lows. Since he's going to be playing against men he's got to embrace the weight room and put on the right kind of weight. That will be a test for our strength and conditioning staff, and it's a test they must ace."

Galloway scored over 26 points for Christian Life Academy (La.) while earning District Player of the Year honors for the second time. A 6-2 guard, he was an All-State selection. "Langston is a basketball player who does a lot of things well. He's athletic and long and is a guy who I fully anticipate competing for rotation minutes," said the coach.

Swilling, also a football standout at Brother Martin High School, is a fellow Louisiana product and AAU teammate of Galloway's. The son of College Football Hall of Famer Pat Swilling, he averaged 18 points and helped his squad to the state title while earning MVP honors of the championship. "Patrick does a little bit of everything on the court. I think the biggest characteristic that he brings as a basketball player is that he is a vision passer. He sees the play, makes the play and plays the game easily."

Quarles, from Paulsboro High School (N.J.), didn't play his senior season because of transfer rules, but had a stellar junior year at Life Center Academy. He averaged 15 points, seven rebounds and four blocks while receiving All-South Jersey Second Team honors. "Daryus is long and lanky and is a sponge in terms of taking in information," said Martelli. "He has an air of desperation about chasing greatness, one which is very comparable to what I saw in Delonte West. I don't really have a concern about him not playing in high school last year because he still played basketball and I think the acclimation to college will be quick for him."

Roberts was a late addition to the class but comes with just as many accolades. He averaged 19 points and 12 rebounds for Saint Peter's Prep, which was ranked sixth in New Jersey, and also garnered All-State honors. "Ronald is another unique individual who has lots and lots of basketball skills. He will need to develop a forceful demeanor because he is such a good person. We're looking forward to working with him because there is so much to work with," Martelli said.

Also new to the program is transfer Halil Kanecevic, a 2010 CAA All-Rookie selection at Hofstra. The sophomore will have three years of eligibility beginning in 2011-12. The 6-8 forward posted 8.6 points and 7.6 rebounds per game with the Pride, while recording double figures 12 times.

The athleticism of this group of first-year players has been noted by Martelli and he feels they will soon become favorites of the SJU faithful. "They will make athletic plays that will bring people out of their seats," he said.

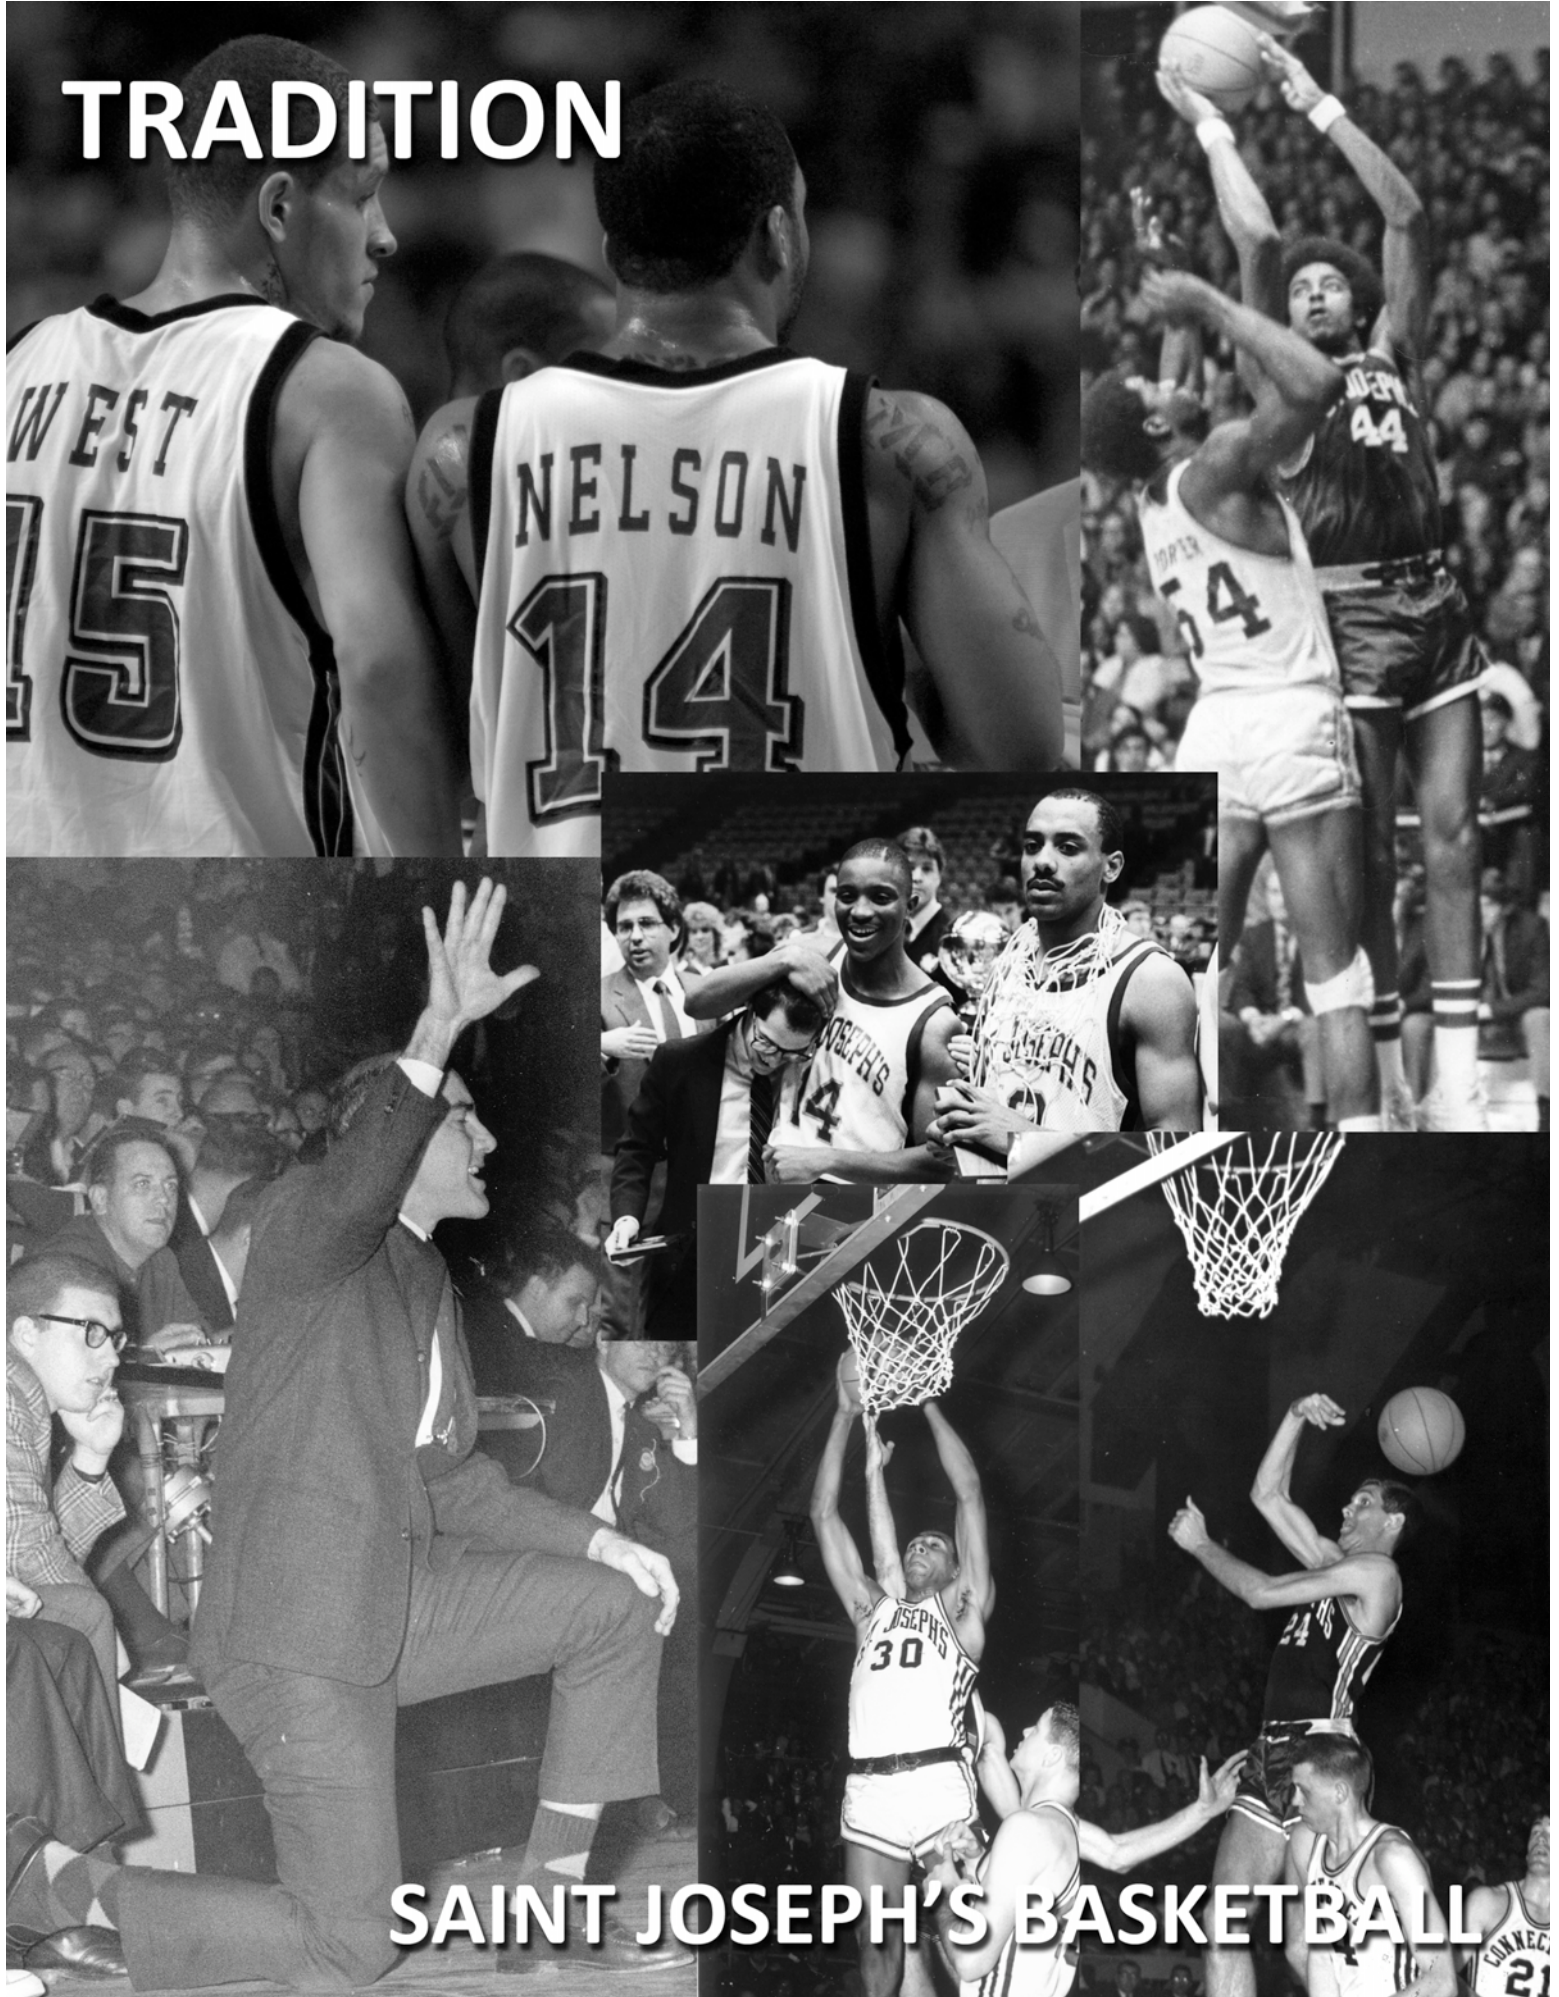

The Hawks' youthful squad will take on a schedule that Martelli called "calm" without the high-level tournament that the Hawks had participated in the past two years (2008 EA Sports Maui Invitational and 2009 Paradise Jam). The schedule is challenging with Minnesota, Penn State, Siena, Villanova and Drexel, as well as the always-tough Atlantic 10 slate. Saint Joseph's will be the local team in the Philly Hoop Group Classic, where it will face Norfolk State at home, Fairfield on the road and Rutgers at The Palestra.

The challenge lies ahead for Saint Joseph's in 2010-11, but Martelli is determined to bring the Hawks back to the level that is most associated with SJU basketball. "The goal here is to not recreate, but to re-establish who we are and where we stand in this city and this league," said the coach. "We cannot and will not be an afterthought."

2010-11 Notes

- Saint Joseph's will be the local representative for the Philly Hoop Group Classic. SJU will host Norfolk State on Nov. 20, then travel to Fairfield on Nov. 23. All four teams will play a doubleheader at The Palestra on Nov. 26, with Fairfield facing Norfolk State and Saint Joseph's taking on Rutgers in the nightcap.
- When the Hawks face Rutgers on Nov. 26, Phil Martelli will be squaring off against his youngest son Jimmy and former assistant coach Mike Rice. Rice is in his first season as head coach at Rutgers, while Jimmy is in his first year as assistant there after working with Rice for three years at Robert Morris. It will mark the first time that the elder Martelli has coached against one of his sons. Older son Phil, Jr. is currently an assistant coach in his fourth year at Niagara.
- SJU will visit Drexel's Daskalakis Athletic Center on Dec. 1 for the first time since 1992, returning the favor to the Dragons, who came to Hawk Hill to open Hagan Arena last season.
- Freshman Langston Galloway, who hails from Baton Rouge, La., is the nephew of Hawk assistant coach Geoff Arnold.
- The 24th game of this season will be the 500th game for Phil Martelli as head coach of the Hawks.

Hagan Arena has many more amenities to enhance the Saint Joseph's fan experience, while providing the basketball program with a top-notch facility, which still preserves the homecourt advantage enjoyed for so many years at Alumni Memorial Fieldhouse.

Hagan Arena was dedicated on October 17, 2009, with the first basketball game being Saint Joseph's win over Drexel on November 13, 2009.

Michael J. Hagan '85, and his wife, Joyce, are the lead benefactors for the most comprehensive enhancement of athletic facilities in Saint Joseph's history. A 1985 graduate of SJU, he received his bachelor's degree in accounting and was a member of the Hawks' golf team. The former chairman and chief executive officer of NutriSystem, Inc., Hagan was named the 2006 Entrepreneur of the Year by Forbes magazine. The Hagans reside in Newtown, Pa., with their children, Michael, Collin and Emma.

RAMSAY BASKETBALL CENTER

RAMSAY BASKETBALL CENTER

The Ramsay Basketball Center provides state-of-the-art facilities for the Saint Joseph's men's and women's basketball programs, as well as the Athletic Communications Office. The new locker rooms, players' lounges, study spaces and video capabilities are a dramatic upgrade over the former Fieldhouse facilities.

The Delonte West Players' Lounge provides a comfortable space for the Hawks with top-of-the-line audio and video components.

The Thomas J. Wynne '63 Hall of Fame Room is one of the showpieces of the building and provides a spectacular view of campus. The Wynne Hall of Fame Room is used for special functions, including pre- and post-game receptions.

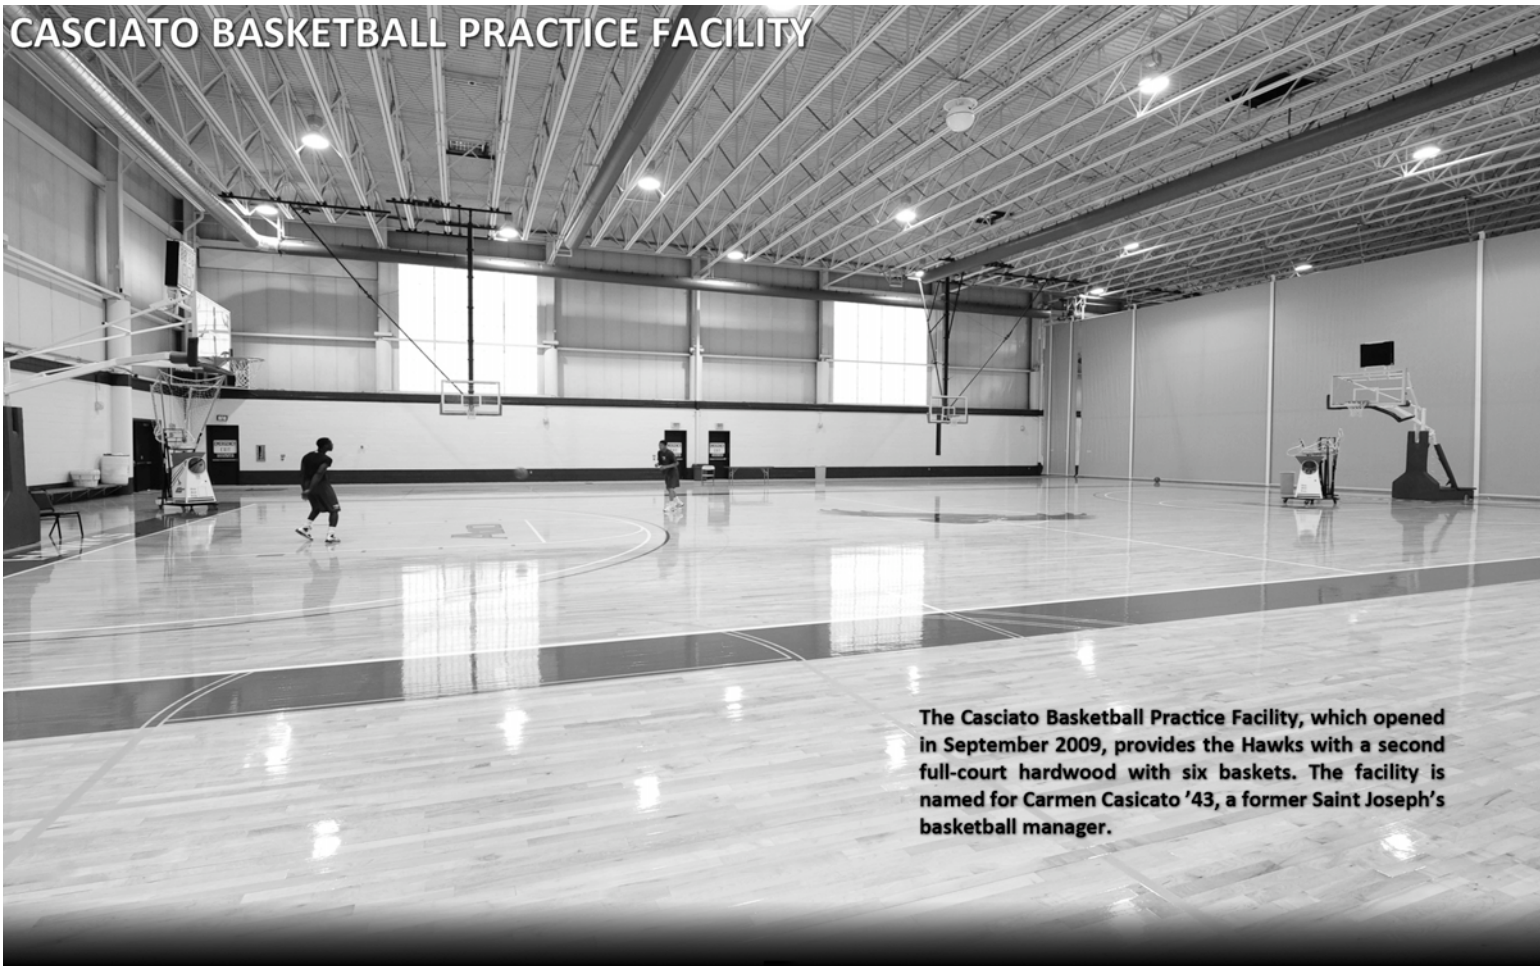

The Ramsay Basketball Center includes new offices for men's and women's basketball. Head coach Phil Martelli's office suite consists of a large office with an adjoining conference room.

The men's basketball locker room is named for former Hawk stand-out and current Orlando Magic star Jameer Nelson (below).

CASCIATO BASKETBALL PRACTICE FACILITY

The Casciato Basketball Practice Facility, which opened in September 2009, provides the Hawks with a second full-court hardwood with six baskets. The facility is named for Carmen Casciato '43, a former Saint Joseph's basketball manager.

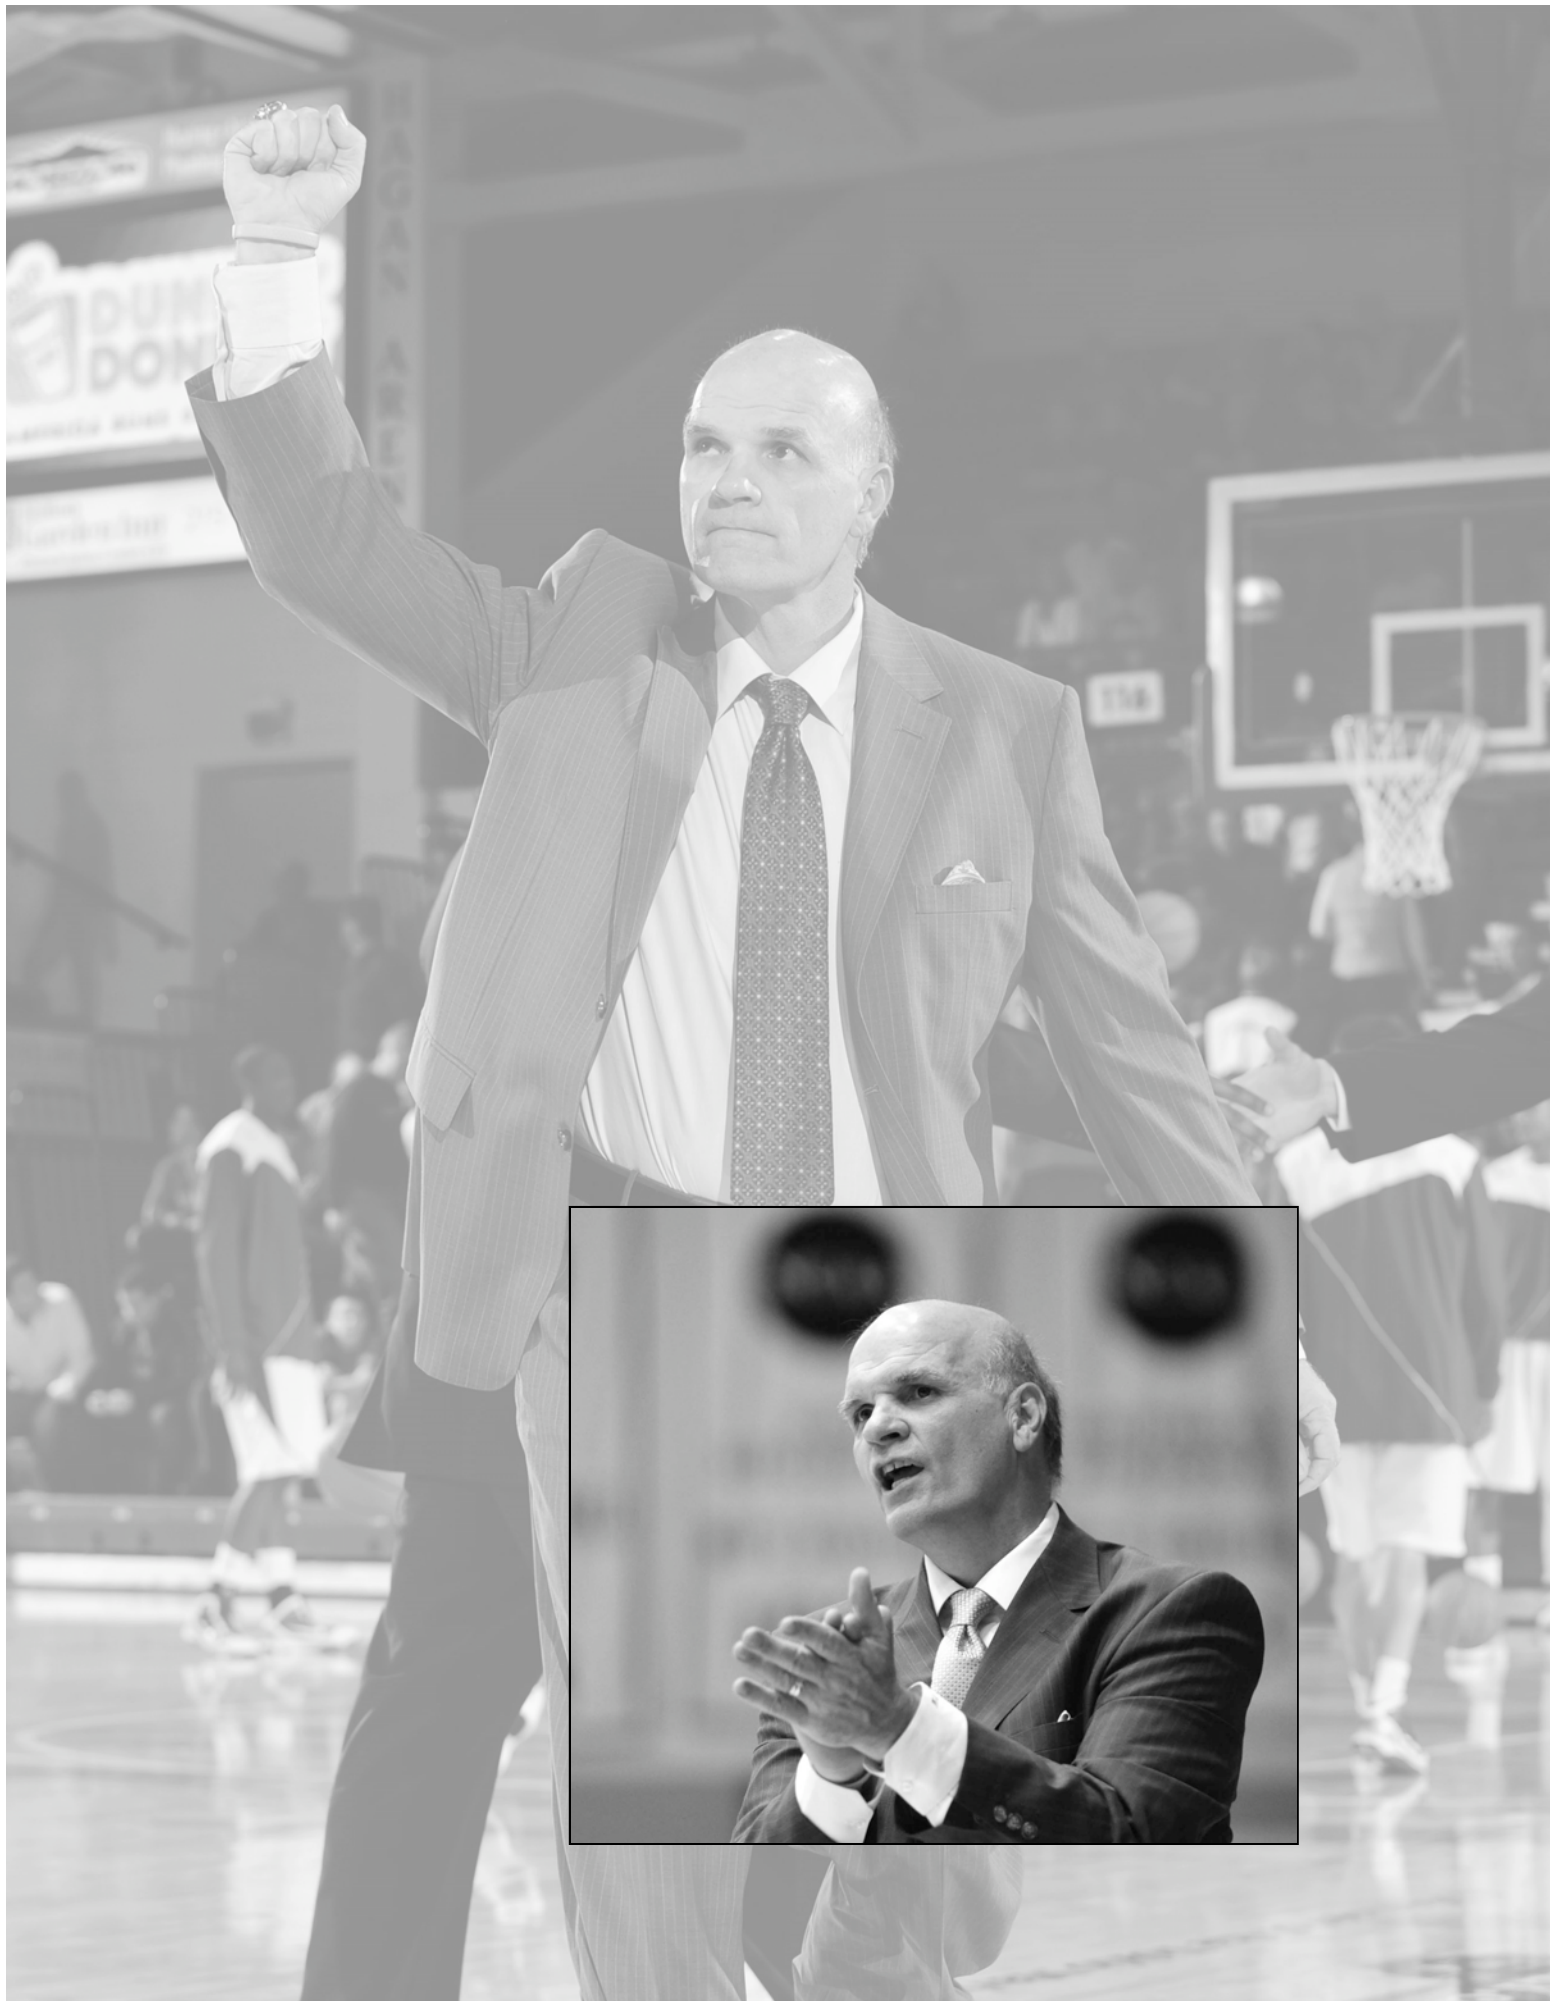

The Philadelphia 76ers have held their preseason training camp at the facility for the past two years. The court has been used by several NBA teams for workouts prior to playing the 76ers.

PHIL MARTELLI

Head Coach - 16th Season

- 2004 Consensus National Coach of the Year •
- Four-time Atlantic 10 Coach of the Year • conference, a perennial post-season participant and a key player on the national scene, while earning his place among the top coaches in the school's storied history. The 2010-11 season marks his 26th year at SJU, including 10 years as an assistant coach.

His 15-year career mark stands at 289-187, while he ranks fourth in career winning percentage (.607) among SJU coaches. Setting the school record for wins in a season (30) in 2004, Martelli has guided SJU to 20 or more victories six times in 15 seasons. He is 146-94 in Atlantic 10 play, which is the most conference wins for any active coach in the A-10. Martelli's efforts and the success of the SJU program have been recognized on a consistent basis. In fact, he has earned a Coach of the Year award, whether it be a city, conference, or regional honor, in six of his 15 seasons.

Martelli faced a challenge in 2009-10 with a young and inexperienced squad that went 11-20, coming off a 2008-09 season that saw the Hawks go 17-15 for his ninth consecutive winning season. Among the highlights of '08-09 was Ahmad Nivins earning AP Honorable Mention All-America honors and becoming the third Hawk in six years to garner the Atlantic 10's Player of the Year Award. Nivins was also chosen by the Dallas Mavericks in the 2009 NBA Draft, becoming the third player coached by Martelli to be drafted.

The 2007-08 Hawks reached the Atlantic 10 Championship game for the third time in four years and earned the program's 19th bid to the NCAA Tournament and Martelli's fifth. The 11th-seeded Hawks fell to sixth-seeded Oklahoma in the NCAA First Round, ending the year at 21-13.

Martelli reached a significant milestone in 2006-07 when he surpassed Hall of Famer Jack Ramsay for second place on the school's all-time list for wins, guiding a young squad to 18 victories.

Martelli has also been at his best when it counts the most as his 17 postseason wins (6 NCAA, 11 NIT) are the most in school history, ahead of Ramsay's 12. Martelli ranks first among Hawk coaches with a .653 postseason winning percentage (17-9) and has taken SJU to the postseason in seven of the last 10 years, and nine times in his 15 seasons.

Martelli turned in another top-notch coaching performance in 2005-06. The Hawks went from a 10-12 record in February to win the final five games of the regular season and three straight in the conference tournament to reach the Atlantic 10 championship for the second year in a row, falling just one point short of the title. The Hawks were rewarded with their sixth consecutive postseason bid, but saw the season come to an end in the NIT second round, closing with a 19-14 mark.

Martelli's effort was similar to the previous season where he turned in perhaps a more remarkable coaching job than in 2003-04 when he was the consensus National Coach of the Year. Faced with the loss of two NBA first-round draft picks from the '03-04 squad that went 30-2, the 2004-05 Hawks struggled early on, but Martelli reworked the team's style of play to guide SJU to 21 wins in the calendar year of 2005 to finish 24-12. Saint Joseph's posted the conference's best record (14-2) and won its fifth straight regular-season title to tie the league record. The Hawks garnered the top seed in the conference tournament for the second year in a row and reached the championship game. He was named the Atlantic 10 Coach of the Year for the second straight season and the fourth time in his career. The Hawks earned their fifth consecutive postseason bid and made an exciting six-game run in the NIT, falling on a last-second shot in the championship game. It marked the second time in his career that he guided SJU to the NIT title game.

Martelli served as the head coach of the 2005 USA Under-21 World Championship Team, which competed at the FIBA U21 World Championship in Argentina, earning a fifth-place finish. He had previously worked with USA Basketball as an assistant coach for the USA's gold-medal winning teams at both the 2001 FIBA World Championship for Young Men and the 1998 Goodwill Games.

PHIL MARTELLI

In 2003-04, Martelli guided a focused and unselfish squad that became the most compelling story in college basketball. The Hawks went undefeated in the regular season, reached the pinnacle as the top-ranked team in the nation and earned the school's first-ever number-one seed in the NCAA Tournament, advancing to the Elite Eight. Jameer Nelson was the consensus National Player of the Year and, along with teammate Delonte West, was a first-round selection in the NBA Draft. The Hawks became the first team since 1990-91 to go through the regular season without a loss (27-0). SJU opened the season ranked 12th in the polls and moved up throughout the year, taking the top spot on March 8, 2004, for the first time ever. SJU finished fifth for its highest final ranking since 1966. It was a school-record fourth straight season, and fifth in Martelli's tenure, that the Hawks were ranked in the AP poll.

Martelli guided SJU to its fourth NCAA appearance in nine seasons, and its first back-to-back berths since 1982. The top-seeded Hawks reached the Elite Eight for the first time since 1981 before falling to Oklahoma State in a heartbreaker, 64-62.

He joined Nelson to sweep the National Coach and Player of the Year awards, marking one of the few times in history that the top player and coach were from the same school. Martelli won the 2004 Naismith Award, the Henry Iba Award (USBWA), the inaugural Adolph Rupp Cup, the Coach of the Year awards from both the Associated Press and CBS/Chevrolet, and the NABC Co-Coach of the Year award. He was the Atlantic 10 Coach of the Year for the third time and a repeat winner of the Harry Litwack Big 5 Coach of the Year award.

The Hawks also won their second outright Big 5 title under Martelli and their fourth straight Atlantic 10 regular season crown. The squad was the recipient of the prestigious Wanamaker Award, given to the Phil Martelli continues his climb up the charts, putting himself among the Hawks' all-time winningest coaches. In 2006-07, Martelli surpassed Naismith Basketball Hall of Famer Jack Ramsay for victories at SJU and now ranks second.

One of the more colorful coaches in the nation, Martelli's personality, wit and accessibility have always made him a media favorite. His popularity grew to an even higher level in 2004, as the Hawks remained unbeaten and the coach was besieged by media requests from all over the country. Martelli remained as accommodating as ever and the Saint Joseph's story was well-documented by the Philadelphia press and told by countless media outlets nationwide.

PHIL MARTELLI

Phil Martelli and Jameer Nelson collected all of the national Coach of the Year and Player of the Year Awards in 2004. The climax of the whirlwind awards tour was Nelson capturing the John R. Wooden Award and having the opportunity to meet coaching legend John Wooden at the awards ceremony in Los Angeles.

Martelli also added a new title to his résumé, that of "author." The coach co-wrote a book, "Don't Call Me Coach: A Lesson Plan for Life" with Harold Gullan, Ph.D, which was published in the fall of 2007.

Martelli's commitment to Saint Joseph's is equaled by the University's commitment to him. The coach agreed to a new contract prior to the 2003-04 season that would extend his tenure through at least the 2009-10 campaign. Following the thrilling run in '03-04, the University extended the coach's contract through the 2011-12 season. That commitment was taken a step further when, prior to the start of the 2008-09 campaign, Martelli's contract was extended through 2015-16.

Martelli is not only passionate for coaching, but also for his work in the community. He is one of the leaders of the Philadelphia chapter of Coaches vs. Cancer, as the coaches from the city's six Division I schools strive to raise awareness and funding to defeat the disease. The group has dedicated themselves to becoming the highest fundraising coaches' group in the country and are on their way to reaching that goal. They were honored at the 2004 NCAA Final Four with the Coaches vs. Cancer Champion Award presented by the National Association of Basketball Coaches and with the Community Service Award from the Philadelphia Sports Congress. Martelli also serves on the Coaches vs. Cancer National Council, which received the Centennial Award from the Fox Chase Cancer Center.

The coach has received numerous honors for his community work, highlighted by three honorary degrees. Martelli's alma mater, Widener University, bestowed upon him one of its highest honors on May 15, 2004 with an honorary doctorate in public service for his "altruistic work in the community and his positive influence as a teacher, coach and role model." On May 21, 2006, he addressed the graduates of Cabrini College and received an honorary doctor of humane letters degree in recognition of his "extraordinary career and service to the community." And in 2010, Martelli gave the commencement address at Immaculata University, while receiving a doctorate of humane letters.

He was also named the "Citizen of the Year" by the March of Dimes in 2004, was inducted into the CYO Hall of Fame for the Archdiocese of Philadelphia, and honored by the National Adoption Center to name a few. In 2006, Martelli was inducted into the Hall of Fame at Kennedy-Kenrick High School (formerly Bishop Kenrick), where he coached.

Martelli views himself as an ambassador for the University and takes the role very seriously. He is one of the most sought-after public speakers in Philadelphia, with an appeal that stretches even further outside the area. Making countless appearances year-round, he finds the time for many organizations, no matter how large or small.

Martelli has served as the honorary chairperson for the Centennial celebration of Ken-Crest, the largest community-based service provider for children and adults with disabilities in Southeastern Pennsylvania and Delaware.

He shows his commitment to the game of basketball by serving on the Board of Directors of the National Basketball Coaches Association and participating as a voter for the ESPN/USA Today Coaches Poll. Martelli was appointed by the NCAA to the Division I Men's Basketball Academic Enhancement Group. The group of coaches and university officials from across the country is charged with developing strategies to enhance academic performance and graduation rates in Division I men's basketball.

PHIL MARTELLI

After 10 years as an assistant at SJU, Martelli was named the 14th coach in school history on July 20, 1995, and was just the third non-alumnus to follow in the storied tradition of Hawk coaches.

Martelli burst onto the scene in 1995-96 and took SJU to the NIT Championship game as a rookie head coach, becoming just the fifth first-year head coach to take a team to the tournament's Final Four since the field expanded to 32 teams in 1980. Martelli led the '95-96 Hawks, which had lost the school's all-time leading scorer and a 1,000-point, 1,000-rebound performer, to a 19-13 record, tying him for third place with Jim Lynam (1978-79) for victories by a first-year SJU coach.

Expectations for 1996-97 were for a winning campaign. And after a disheartening season-opening rout at Duke (89-60) in the first round of the Preseason NIT, Martelli and his charges regrouped and turned in one of the best seasons in the program's history. The team's accomplishments, most of which have now been surpassed by the '03-04 team, included a then-record-tying 26 wins (seven losses), and a final national ranking of 12th by the Associated Press and 17th by CNN/USA Today. The squad also put together a 10-game winning streak and three wins over Top 25 teams while winning both the Atlantic 10 regular season and tournament titles. The Hawks advanced to the NCAA Sweet 16 before suffering a loss to defending national champion Kentucky.

With the team's success came individual accolades for the second-year coach. He garnered Atlantic 10 Coach of the Year honors as well as being named District Coach of the Year by the USBWA, NABC, Eastern Basketball and Basketball Times. Martelli was also named the Eastern College Coach of the Year and was the co-recipient of the Big 5 award.

Martelli's third year at the helm was a true test of his character. The season started with the loss of one of his key players to academics and two highly-touted recruits to NCAA initial eligibility rules. Despite the depleted lineup, the coach kept his team competitive throughout the season, as the Hawks struggled to find wins while facing one of the most demanding schedules in school history. They totaled 11 wins, but the "never say die" spirit of SJU was evidenced by the team holding leads over five nationally-ranked teams late in the second half.

In 1998-99, the Hawk mentor faced perhaps his toughest challenge as a head coach, guiding a team that started a school-record four newcomers through a tough non-conference slate and the always imposing A-10 battles. Martelli and SJU got off to a strong start, defeating No. 21 Tennessee and winning the Cable Car Classic en route to a 9-7 record at mid-January. Youth finally caught up to the Hawks, however, as the team experienced a nine-game losing streak and finished the season with a 12-18 overall mark.

The 1999-2000 season included many highlights as the coach guided the team to a stunning 62-59 win over then-No. 5 Temple at The Palestra on February 29. It was Martelli's first win over Temple

Martelli the Author

In 2007, Phil Martelli added a new title to his résumé - that of "author." He came out with his first book, entitled Don't Call Me Coach: A Lesson Plan for Life. The book is co-written by the Martelli and Harold Gullan, Ph.D.

In the book, Martelli passes on what he has learned from his own rich experience, which includes over 30 years of coaching at the high school and college levels. One of America's most colorful, outspoken, and successful coaches, Martelli compresses his three decades of experience into a 10-point "lesson plan for life" that will benefit anyone, no matter what those challenges may be. He speaks equally to teachers, parents, educators, and business executives - in short, to anyone who plays the role of coach in daily life.

Gullan, a noted historian and sports fan, is also the author of The Upset That Wasn't, Faith of Our Mothers, First Fathers, and Jumping Through Hoops.

The book, which includes a foreword from Pennsylvania Governor Ed Rendell, was published by Camino Books of Philadelphia (www.caminobooks.com).

and the program's first win over a Top 5 team since February, 1984 (No. 2 DePaul). The team's 13-16 record was deceiving as the Hawks played a schedule ranked 32nd toughest in the nation.

Picked by most as a middle-of-the-pack Atlantic 10 team in 2000-01, SJU started strong, posting a 7-3 record in its first 10 games, and finished even stronger, going 14-2 in the conference to win the single division A-10 regular season title. Overall, the Hawks again tied the school-record for wins, compiling a 26-7 mark. The team moved into the Top 25 in both major polls in February, and was ranked in the final polls (No. 22 AP; No. 24 ESPN/USA Today).

Despite its ranking, and the presence of one of the nation's finest backcourts in junior Marvin O'Connor and National Freshman of the Year Jameer Nelson, SJU earned an at-large bid but only a number-nine seed. The Hawks responded by downing eighth-seeded Georgia Tech, 66-62, in the first round of the West Regional in San Diego. The team then showed its true mettle, battling top seed Stanford in one of the most exciting games of the NCAA Tournament before falling, 90-83.

As in 1996-97, Martelli picked up much-deserved hardware following the season. He was named Coach of the Year by the Atlantic 10, NABC (District III) and Philadelphia's Basketball Writers (Eastern College Coach of the Year). Nationally, he was a finalist for the national Coach of the Year by ESPN the Magazine and also a finalist for the Naismith College Basketball Coach of the Year award.

In the 2001-02 preseason, the Hawks were ranked as high as eighth by Sports Illustrated and 10th by both major polls. SJU stayed in the polls until mid-December when three straight losses (North Carolina, Georgia State and Gonzaga), all coinciding with an injury to All-American guard O'Connor, saw the team fall from the rankings. Saint Joseph's rebounded to post a 19-12 record, share the A-10 East title for Martelli's third regular-season crown, and earn its fourth postseason bid in seven years (NIT).

In 2002-03, after graduating four fifth-year seniors that compiled over 5,000 points and 2,200 rebounds, the Hawks were picked to be in the middle of the A-10 East Division. With arguably the nation's best point guard in the fold in Nelson, Martelli built the team around defense and perimeter play. The plan worked as SJU went on to lead the nation in field goal percentage defense (.372) and ranked seventh in scoring defense (59.5 ppg). The team cracked the national polls in February and ended the season with its third straight A-10 regular season title, second NCAA at-large bid in three seasons and a 23-7 record, despite a late-season injury to Delonte West.

Off the court, Martelli's lighter side is featured weekly on his HawkTalk television show, which now enters its 15th year, and is the most unique coach's show in the nation, with a "Tonight Show" format. Game highlights are included, but are secondary to the jokes and humorous interviews. Named the best coach's show in college basketball by The Sporting News in 2001, HawkTalk gained a much greater audience in its third year (1998-99), with its move to Comcast SportsNet, Philadelphia's regional all-sports station. The show's viewer base grew even more in 2003-04, when national network CBS College Sports aired the show for five years.

A four-time Atlantic 10 (1997, 2000, 2004, 2005) and four-time USBWA District Coach of the Year (1997, 2001, 2003, 2004), Martelli is one of just three Hawk coaches to record 200 career wins, posting his milestone victory against Buffalo on March 19, 2005.

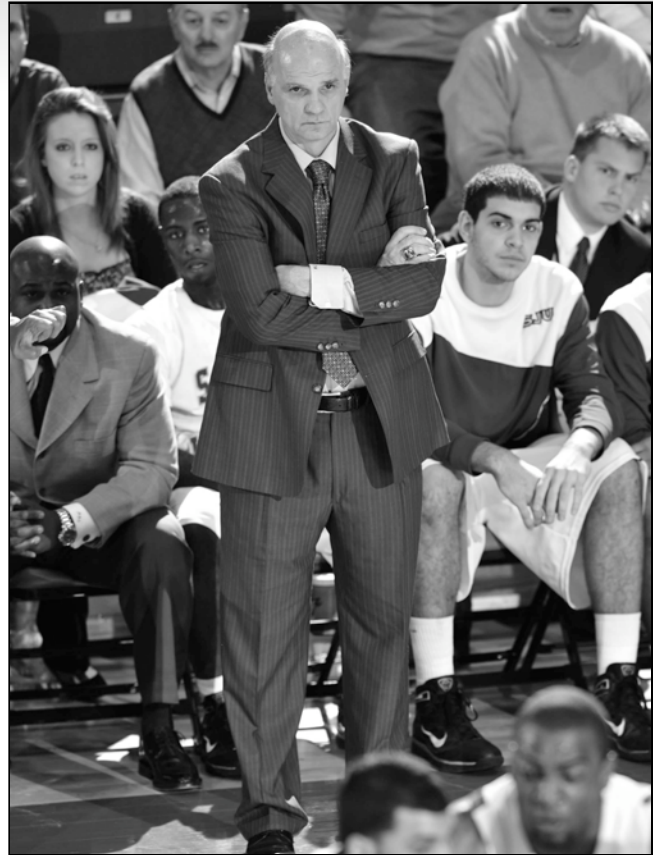

A 1976 graduate of Widener University, Martelli began his career on Hawk Hill with SJU's 1985-86 team, which reached the NCAA Tournament. In his decade as an assistant, he was part of the Hawks' NIT teams in 1992-93 and 1994-95.

Prior to his arrival at SJU, Martelli spent seven years as head basketball coach at Bishop Kenrick High School in Norristown, Pa. At Kenrick, he led his team to six straight Catholic League playoff appearances, a school record, and still owns the school's all-time mark for wins with 108. His best season came in 1982, when he was named prep Coach of the Year by both the Philadelphia Inquirer and Philadelphia Daily News. He earned similar honors in both 1980 and 1982 for Montgomery County from the Norristown Times-Herald.

Martelli began his career as the junior varsity coach at Cardinal O'Hara High in Springfield, Pa., for the 1976-77 season. He moved on the following year to become an assistant at his alma mater, where he helped guide Widener to the NCAA Division III Final Four. After that season, he accepted the head job at Kenrick.

As a player, he was part of Widener's NCAA Tournament teams in both 1974-75 and 1975-76, serving as team co-captain as a senior. The point guard also set the school's single season and career assist marks.

Martelli and his wife, Judy, a former basketball player with the legendary Immaculata College teams in the 1970s, have three children. Phil, Jr., a 2003 SJU graduate, is an assistant basketball coach at Niagara University, Jimmy is an assistant coach at Rutgers University, and Elizabeth is a 2009 graduate of Saint Joseph's. The newest member of the family is grandson Philip Stephen, who was born to Phil, Jr., and wife Meghan in October 2009.

"This was the least-talented Hawks team during the six-season run. Which didn't stop them from playing with the passion and intelligence that have become the hallmarks of St. Joe's basketball under Martelli and his coaching staff. They always devise a way to give their teams a chance... Ultimately, it is a chance many programs don't get because they are never in the fight. One way or another, the Hawks are always in the fight."

PHIL MARTELLI

Phil Martelli joined friend Geno Auriemma, the head women's coach at Connecticut, at Auriemma's induction into the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame on September 8, 2006. The duo coached together at Bishop Kenrick High School when Martelli was the head coach there early in his career. Auriemma also spent a year at Saint Joseph's, as an assistant with the women's basketball team.

Martelli received his third honorary doctorate in six years when he gave the Commencement Address at Immaculata University in 2010. His alma mater, Widener University, had bestowed the honor upon him in 2004, while he also received an honorary degree in 2006 from Cabrini College.

Martelli coached the 2005 USA Men's Under 21 World Championship Team at the FIBA U21 World Championship in Argentina in August, 2005.

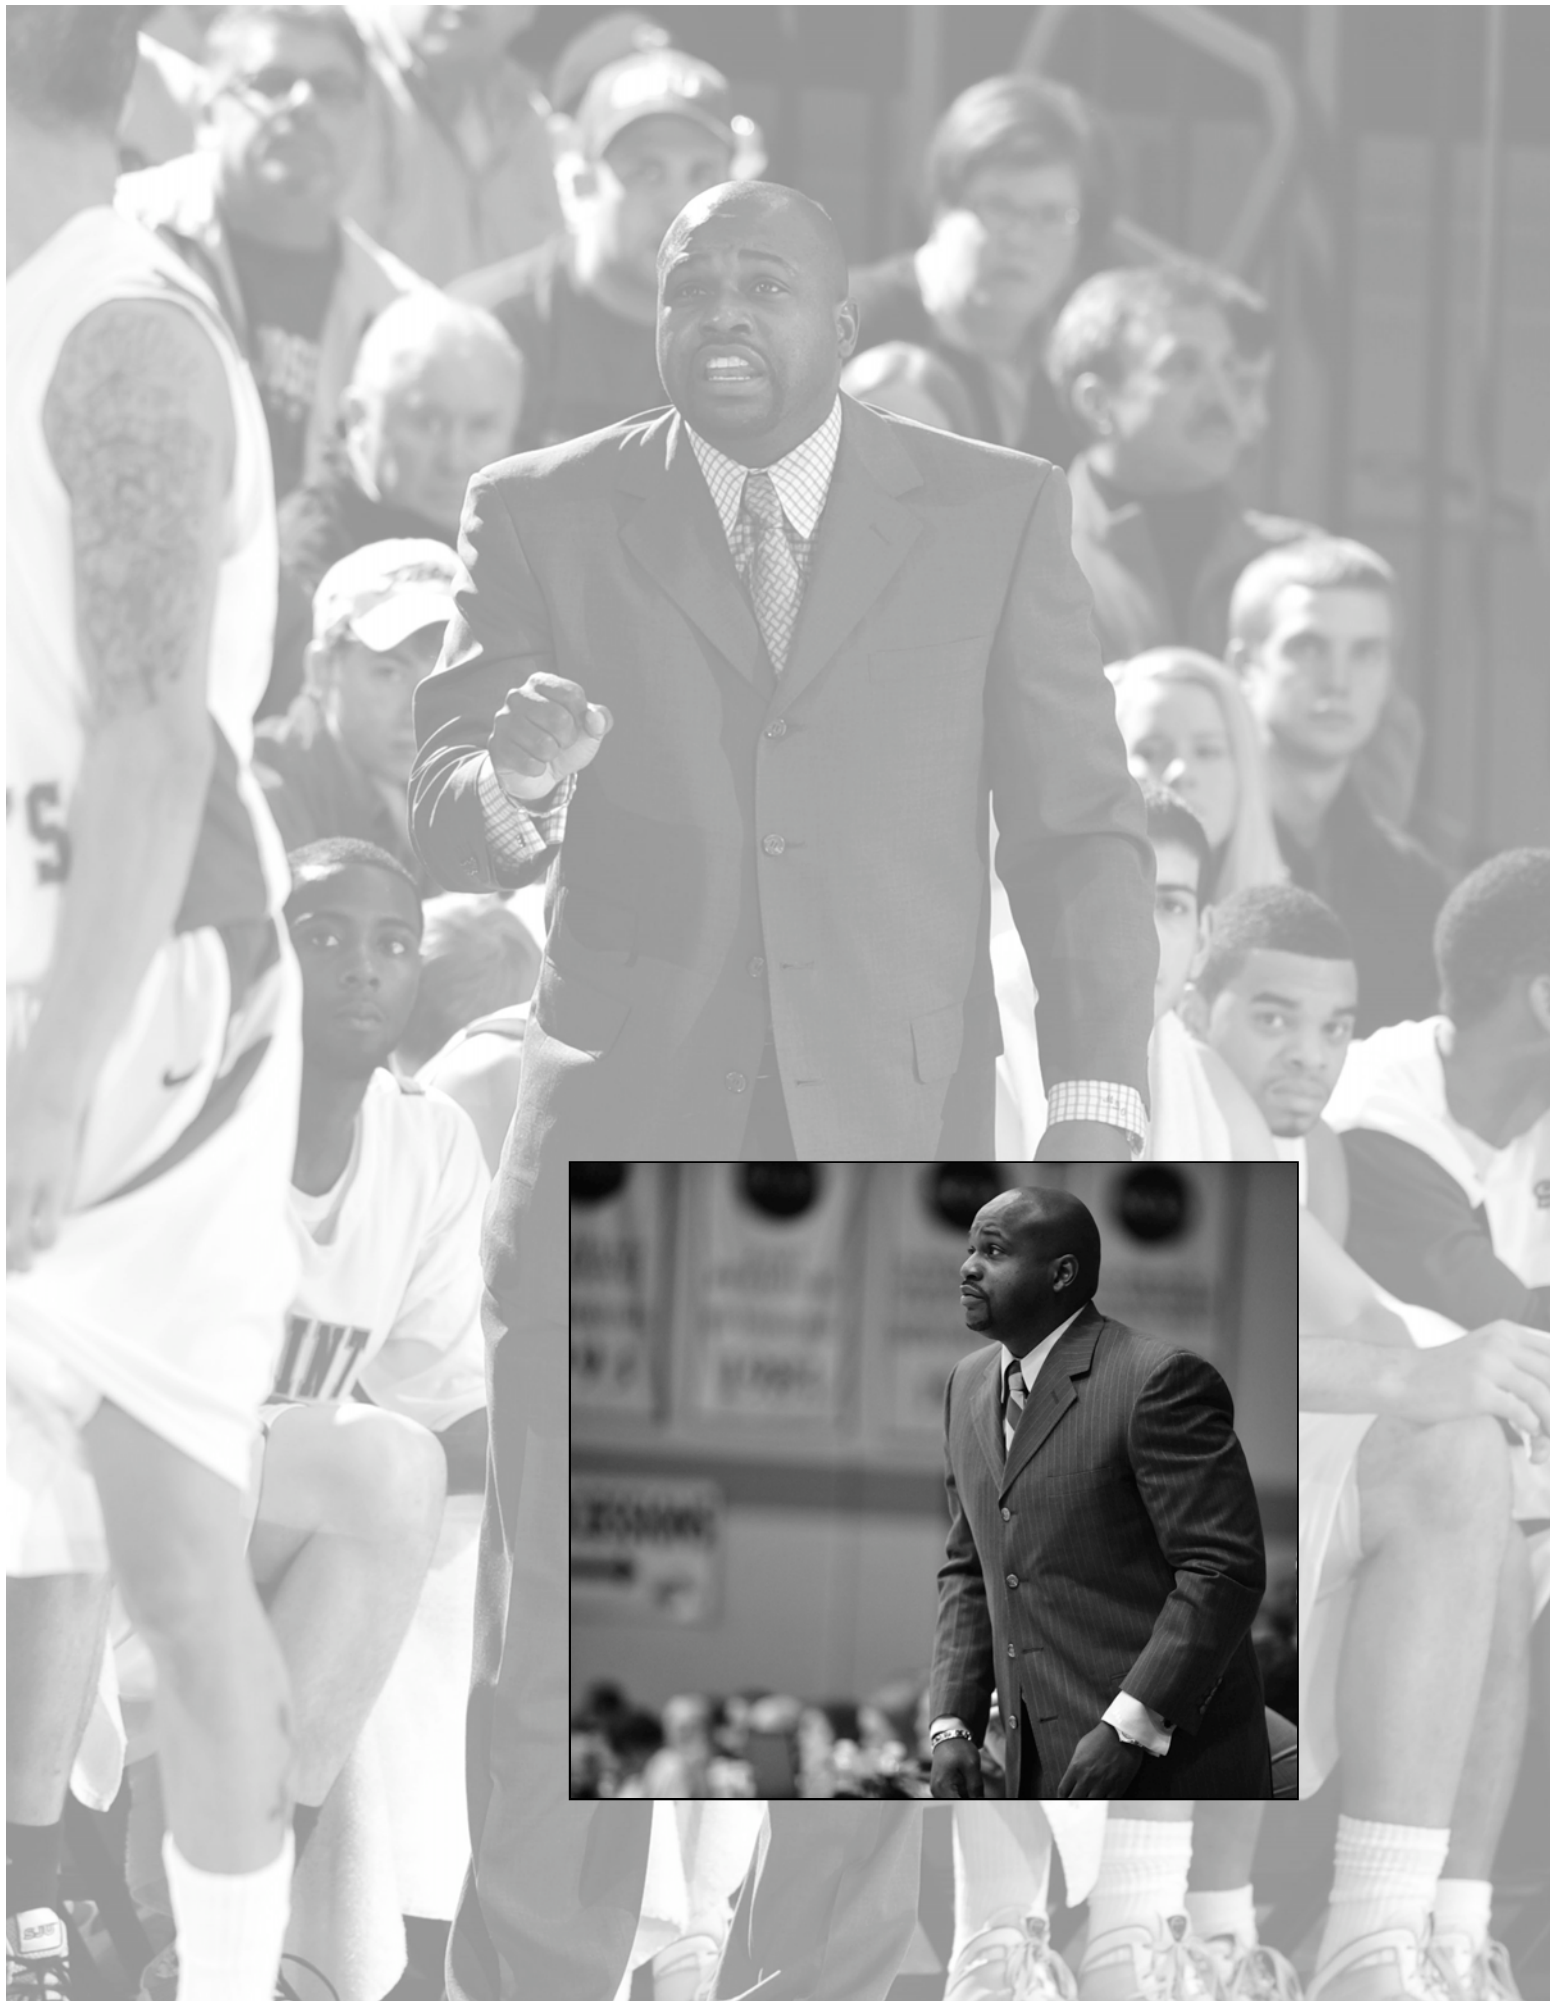

The 2004 winner of the Adolph Rupp Cup as the nation's top coach, Martelli was called upon to present the award to the 2006 Coach of the Year, Roy Williams of North Carolina at the 2006 Final Four in Indianapolis.

Martelli is actively involved in many charitable endeavors and lends his time to numerous groups. One of his primary commitments is to Coaches vs. Cancer.

Martelli and good friend Fran Dunphy (right) of Temple serve as the co-chairs of the Philadelphia chapter of Coaches vs. Cancer. The Philadelphia coaches have become one of the highest fundraising groups in the country.

MARK BASS

Assistant Coach

12th Season

Mark Bass, one of the most prolific shooters in Saint Joseph's history, is the veteran among the Hawks' assistant coaches, and is now entering his 12th season at his alma mater in 2010-11.

Bass joined the Hawks' staff in 1999-2000 and has been involved with teams that made six consecutive post-season appearances, won five Atlantic 10 regular-season titles and compiled a 169-90 record in the past eight years. Nine years after he led the Hawks to the NIT Final as a player in 1996, Bass again helped SJU reach New York City and the NIT Final as a coach in 2005.

In 2005, Bass was honored with the William J. Bennett Memorial Award, recognizing dedication and loyalty to the Saint Joseph's men's basketball program. He was a co-recipient of the award with then-fellow staff member Monté Ross.

A fiery leader on the court, and two-year team captain, Bass led the Hawks to the NIT Finals in his senior season, 1995-96, and ranked second on the team with his average of 14.3 points per game. He connected for school records of 91 3-pointers and 268 attempts, season marks which were later eclipsed by Pat Carroll in 2005. A Second Team All-Big 5 selection, Bass made 225 3-pointers during his career from 1992-96, a total that now ranks fifth on the Hawks' all-time list. As a freshman, the guard led the Atlantic 10 Conference in free throw percentage with a school-record 86.9 percent. He also led the A-10 in 3-point percentage as a junior (.423), making him just the second Saint Joseph's player to lead the league in two different categories.

In 2001, Bass became the first member of the 1996 NIT Finalist team to be inducted into the Saint Joseph's Basketball Hall of Fame.

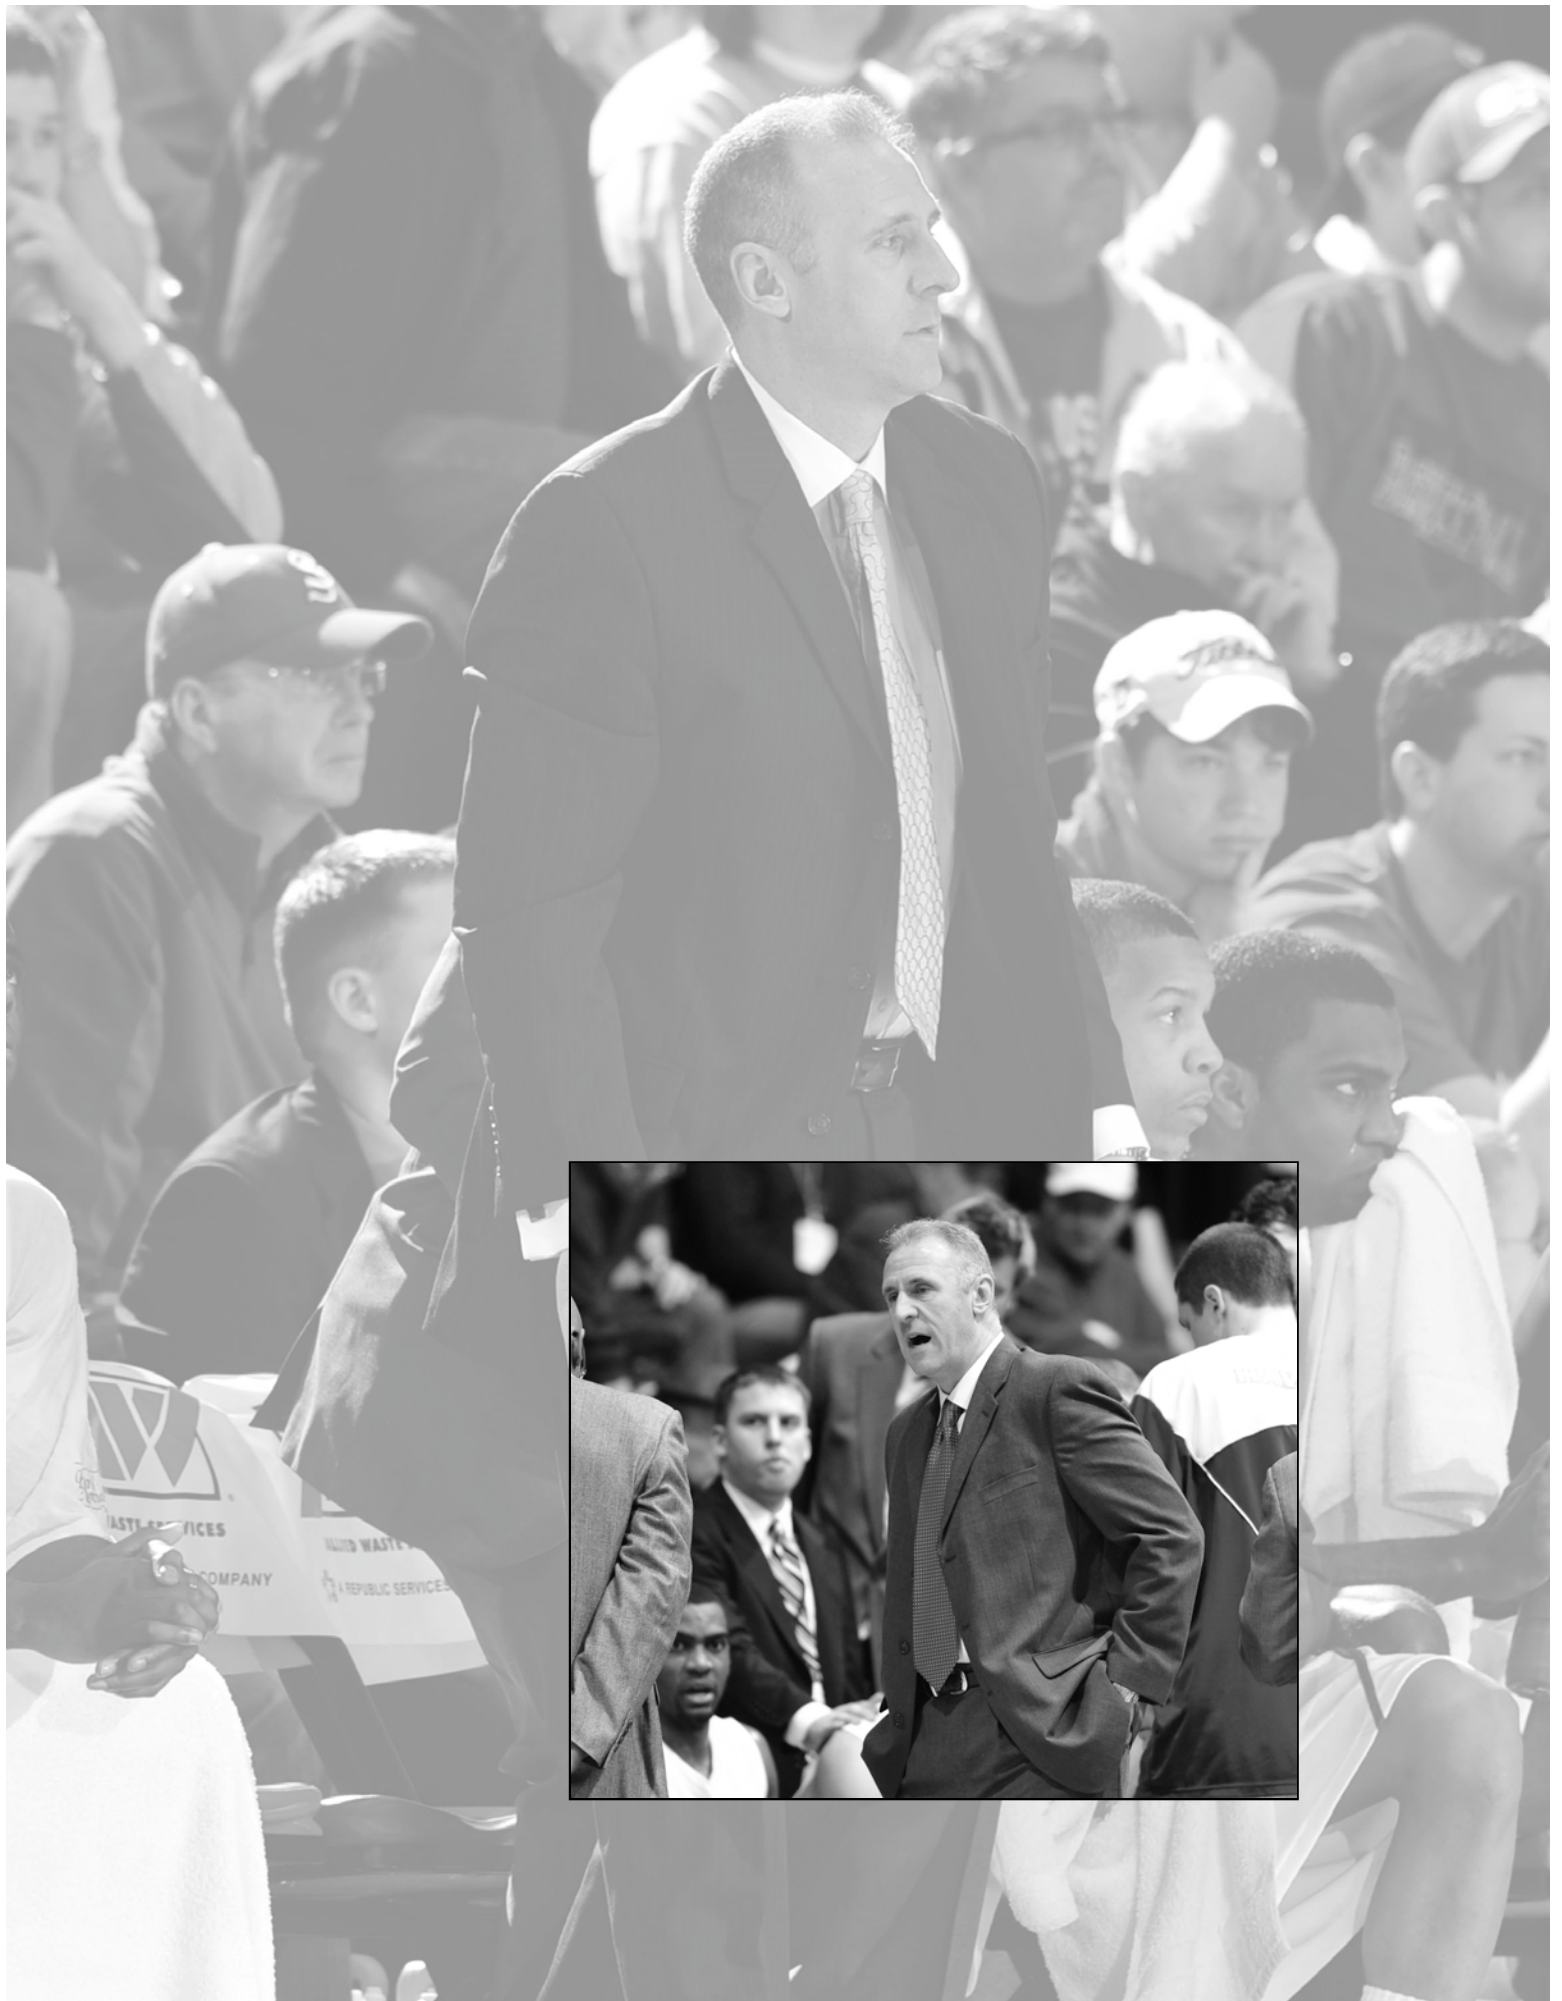

Upon graduation he played one season of professional basketball with the Tianjin Breakers in the Chinese Professional League in 1996-97. Following that, he served two seasons (1997-99) as an assistant coach under Max Good at Maine Central Institute, helping guide the team to back-to-back New England Prep School Championships, including a perfect 35-0 season in 1997-98.

A 1991 graduate of McCorristin High School in New Jersey and native of Trenton, Bass was named the Mercer County Player of the Year as a senior and set the all-time scoring record with 1,482 points in his career. He played for one year at Maine Central Institute, helping the squad to a 27-1 record with the lone loss coming in the New England Prep School Championship game.

Bass, who was inducted into the Mercer County CYO Hall of Fame in November, 2004, resides with his wife, Tracie, in Lawnside, N.J.

DAVID DUDA

Assistant Coach

5th Season

After a highly successful head coaching career in the Division III ranks, David Duda is now in his fifth season with the Hawks.

At SJU, Duda was instrumental in the development of 2009 Atlantic 10 Player of the Year Ahmad Nivins, who was selected by the Dallas Mavericks in the second round of the 2009 NBA Draft.

Duda came to SJU in 2006 after eight years as head coach at Widener University, where he compiled a 143-68 record, with two Middle Atlantic Conference Commonwealth championships and three trips to the NCAA Division III Tournament. He also served as Widener's athletic director from 2003 to 2006, overseeing the operation of the University's athletics program with 20 varsity teams.

Widener enjoyed its greatest success under his leadership in 2005-06, when the team finished 23-6, won the Commonwealth Conference regular-season title and made the school's first NCAA Sweet 16 appearance since 1987. Duda earned Coach of the Year honors for both the Commonwealth Conference and the NABC Mid-Atlantic Region.

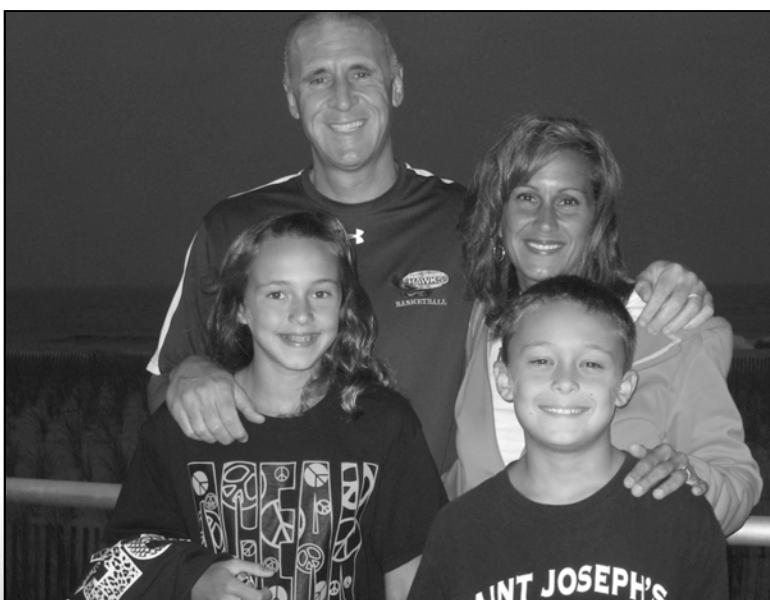

Duda led the Pioneers to a record-breaking 24-4 season in 1999-00 and was recognized as MAC Coach of the Year.

A 1988 graduate of Spring Garden College, where he was a two-time honorable mention All-American, Duda began his coaching career as the top assistant to Herb Magee at Philadelphia University. During those seven seasons the Rams had their most successful period in school history, and Philadelphia University was the winningest Division II school in the country during that span with a 171-35 record.

He moved on to be the head coach at Delaware Valley College in 1997 for two seasons. Duda turned around a team which had been 0-23, leading it to a 12-12 mark for the first non-losing season in 11 years. He earned the Freedom Conference Coach of the Year award in 1998. His career coaching record in 10 seasons is 159-99.

Duda's connection with the Hawks' head coach dates back to 1981 when he played for Martelli on the varsity team at Bishop Kenrick High School (1981-84).

Duda lives in Collegeville, Pa., with his wife Barbara and children, Danielle and David.

THE HAWK

One of the most famous mascots in college sports, the Saint Joseph's Hawk has been flapping its wings for 55 years.

The Hawk, which celebrated its golden anniversary in 2005-06, is best known for staying in constant motion by flapping its wings throughout every basketball game and representing the Saint Joseph's motto, "The Hawk Will Never Die."

Jim Brennan originated the idea for a hawk as mascot during the 1954-55 season. Brennan, an ex-Marine and SJU cheerleader, at first wanted to secure an actual hawk, but later switched to the costume idea. The student government raised the 120 dollars needed to buy the initial costume, which Brennan donned for three years. He made his debut as the Hawk on January 4, 1956, a 69-56 win over La Salle at the Palestra. Since then, and including this season, a total of 31 SJU students have donned the costume. The Hawk has not missed a men's basketball game since that first season in 1955-56.

There have been two women to serve as the mascot - Sara Brennan, in 2000-01 and Brienne Ryan in 2009-10.

In addition to the constant flapping, the Hawk is also recognized by its "flying" in figure eights around the court during timeouts. Years ago, ESPN used a "flap-o-meter" on the national telecast of a Saint Joseph's game to estimate that the Hawk flaps its wings 3,500 times during a regulation game.

The Hawk is unique because it is one of the few mascots in the nation that travels to every game, and the student who holds the position gains a tuition scholarship. The student, who is selected through an interview process during the previous spring semester, also serves as a team manager for the men's basketball team and travels with the squad.

The most decorated mascot in the country, The Hawk has garnered numerous accolades in its 50-year history. The Sporting News, Sports Illustrated, Sports Illustrated for Kids, Street & Smith's Basketball Yearbook and ESPN College Basketball magazine have selected it as the nation's top mascot. Eastern Basketball tabbed The Hawk as the Atlantic 10 Conference's best mascot, while The Hawk won a "Best of Philly" award from Philadelphia Magazine in 2003-04. The Hawk was selected as a 2008 nominee for the Mascot Hall of Fame.

Saint Joseph's athletic teams have been recognized with the nickname "Hawks" since 1929. At that time, the school's yearbook editor, Charlie Dunn, initiated a contest among the student body for a symbol. More than 100 submissions were narrowed to two, with "Hawks" winning out over "Grenadiers" (World War I soldiers who specialized in tossing grenades) by a slim margin in the final vote.

John Gallagher '31, a catcher on the Saint Joseph's baseball team, submitted the winning suggestion. He won a sweater with a special Saint Joseph's monogram for selecting the winning name. According to the Student Annual, the nickname was appropriate because it typified "the fighting spirit of our crimson and gray athletes and it is suggestive of the aerial attack which has made our football team famous." Ironically, football was discontinued at Saint Joseph's following the 1939 season.

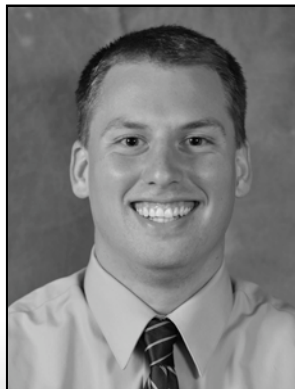

But it has been the connection with the storied tradition of the Saint Joseph's men's and women's basketball programs that has given The Hawk mascot its prominence on the national level, making it one of the most recognized mascots in college athletics.

Tim Higgins

Tim Higgins will serve as the Saint Joseph's Hawk mascot for the 2010-11 season. He is the 33rd student to represent the University as its mascot, in the 55th year of one of college basketball's most famous traditions.

A graduate of Camden Catholic High School, Higgins has served as a team manager for the Hawks for the past two years.

He is a senior marketing major who originally hails from Merchantville, N.J.
