2011-12 PREVIEW

The Saint Joseph's basketball team enters 2011-12 with a renewed sense of enthusiasm and confidence after posting a strong end to last year's campaign, while returning four starters from that team.

With the youngest squad in the 16 years under coach Phil Martelli, last year's team suffered growing pains, but also showed an abundance of talent and athleticism that should return the Hawks to the Atlantic 10's elite in future seasons.

The young Hawks made an exciting late-season run that further solidified the promise for success in the near future, as they won four of the last six games and fell just three points short of a berth in the Atlantic 10 championship game. Although SJU ended the year with an 11-22 record, the Hawks went 6-5 down the stretch.

"They were feeling good at the end of the year whether it was because of advancing to the A-10 semifinals, winning six of the last 11 games or just being more competitive," said Martelli, now entering his 17th season at Saint Joseph's. "The sense I have is that it created a little bit of a swagger with the players. They weren't as defeated mentally or physically and we had a very good spring because of that."

"At the same time you can't be fooled into saying everything's all right because we made the semifinals," said the coach. "We were a bounce away from not even going to the A-10 Tournament. I'm well aware of that and have it locked in my memory."

The Hawks will look to carry the momentum from that run into this season and should be strengthened by the internal competition that will be present daily.

Carl Jones

"I think there's a certain level of competition within the group that will bode well for depth," said the coach, who is 10 victories away from surpassing the school's all-time career mark (309). "It will separate the men from the boys, so to speak. If they decide to not work in the summer, there's someone at their position who is going to work and move ahead of them. There is no separation where we can say this guy is head and shoulders above the next guy. I think if any guys stay the same, it won't be good enough because they'll get passed by their own teammates."

Martelli feels that the Hawks' guard play was one of the keys to the late-season resurgence and Carl "Tay" Jones and Langston Galloway were the catalysts.

The Hawks' leading scorer with 17.0 points per game, Jones spent most of his minutes at the point, and at the end of the year, was averaging almost 6.0 assists per game. He earned All-Big 5 Second Team honors and shared MVP honors with Galloway. The freshman averaged 12.8 points per game and scored in double figures 20 times to be named to the Atlantic 10 All-Rookie Team and the Big 5 Rookie of the Year.

The Hawks will continue to rely on Jones and Galloway this season and expect even more from the duo, which accounted for 45 percent of SJU's scoring last year.

"Tay has a lot of ways to score the ball, but has also shown that we can be successful when he's at the point," said Martelli. "Plus, he's a third-year guy on a team that is relatively young."

"Langston had a good year. He has to get tighter with his ball handling and has to avoid the droughts that happened a few times. I want him to be even more of a complete guard. I thought he rebounded and defended well, but now he has to do that even better," said the coach.

The backcourt will be strengthened with the arrival of Chris Wilson, a 6-3 point guard from Terry Sanford High School in North Carolina. Wilson, a two-time AP All-State selection, averaged 18.4 points and 5.7 assists as a senior, while guiding the team to a 27-3 record. During his career, Terry Sanford compiled an impressive 112-12 record, while reaching the Eastern Regional final three consecutive years.

"Chris is a kid who thinks point guard, acts point guard, plays point guard and is a point guard through and through," said Martelli. "He has a great collegiate body. He is not going to run past anyone but he is going to think his way past everyone. He's going to make his teammates better because he's vocal and he has big-time winning team experience."

Langston Galloway

2011-12 PREVIEW

C.J. Aiken

Daryus Quarles started all 33 games last season and put up double figures in a handful of games. The 6-6 sophomore gives the Hawks size on the wing along with good shooting range.

Another newcomer in the backcourt is freshman Evan Maschmeyer. The 6-3 guard from Jeffersonville, Indiana, averaged 15.2 points and was an All-State selection as a senior at Jeffersonville High School.

With the loss of senior starter Idris Hilliard, the Hawks' frontcourt will be very young, but one that holds great promise for this season and those to come.

One of the more anticipated additions is transfer Halil Kanacevic, who came to Hawk Hill after a solid freshman year at Hofstra University, where he was a 2010 CAA All-Rookie selection. The 6-8 power forward, whom Martelli often called SJU's "best player in practice" last season while he sat out, will give the Hawks great versatility and leadership.

"I think anyone who can say they had 18 points and 12 rebounds (in his first career game) at Kansas is a player. The coaches in the CAA told me that they were looking at Halil as a three-year All-League player. That means you're a quality player," said the coach. "I've been impressed with his cerebral nature. Although he's relatively young, he has an old player's game, an old player's mind and an old player's heart."

Sophomore Ronald Roberts, Jr., was one of SJU's most exciting players last season, with an athletic ability that hasn't been seen on Hawk Hill in a while. Roberts started 11 of the last 12 games and gives SJU rebounding and an inside scoring presence.

With his shot-blocking ability, sophomore C.J. Aiken established himself as one of the top defensive players in the nation. A starter in the first 18 games, he averaged 3.5 blocks per game, which was the third-best number in the nation. Aiken is more comfortable offensively on the perimeter and the 6-9 forward showed the ability to hit the three-pointer.

Kanacevic should complement both players as he is productive with his back to the basket, but could also be one of SJU's best at feeding the post.

Also new to the fold is 6-8 freshman Papa Ndao, who red-shirted last season after enrolling at SJU in January. Ndao practiced with the Hawks for the second semester and impressed Martelli. "The last 10 to 17 days of practice he was very good and he had an extraordinary work ethic in the spring and summer. Papa loves to be in the gym and the weight room. I know he can defend - we have to find out if he can score at this level."

The Hawks will face a solid non-conference schedule, highlighted by an appearance in the Charleston Classic with 2011 Final Four participant VCU, Georgia Tech, LSU, Northwestern, Tulsa, Seton Hall and Western Kentucky in the tournament.

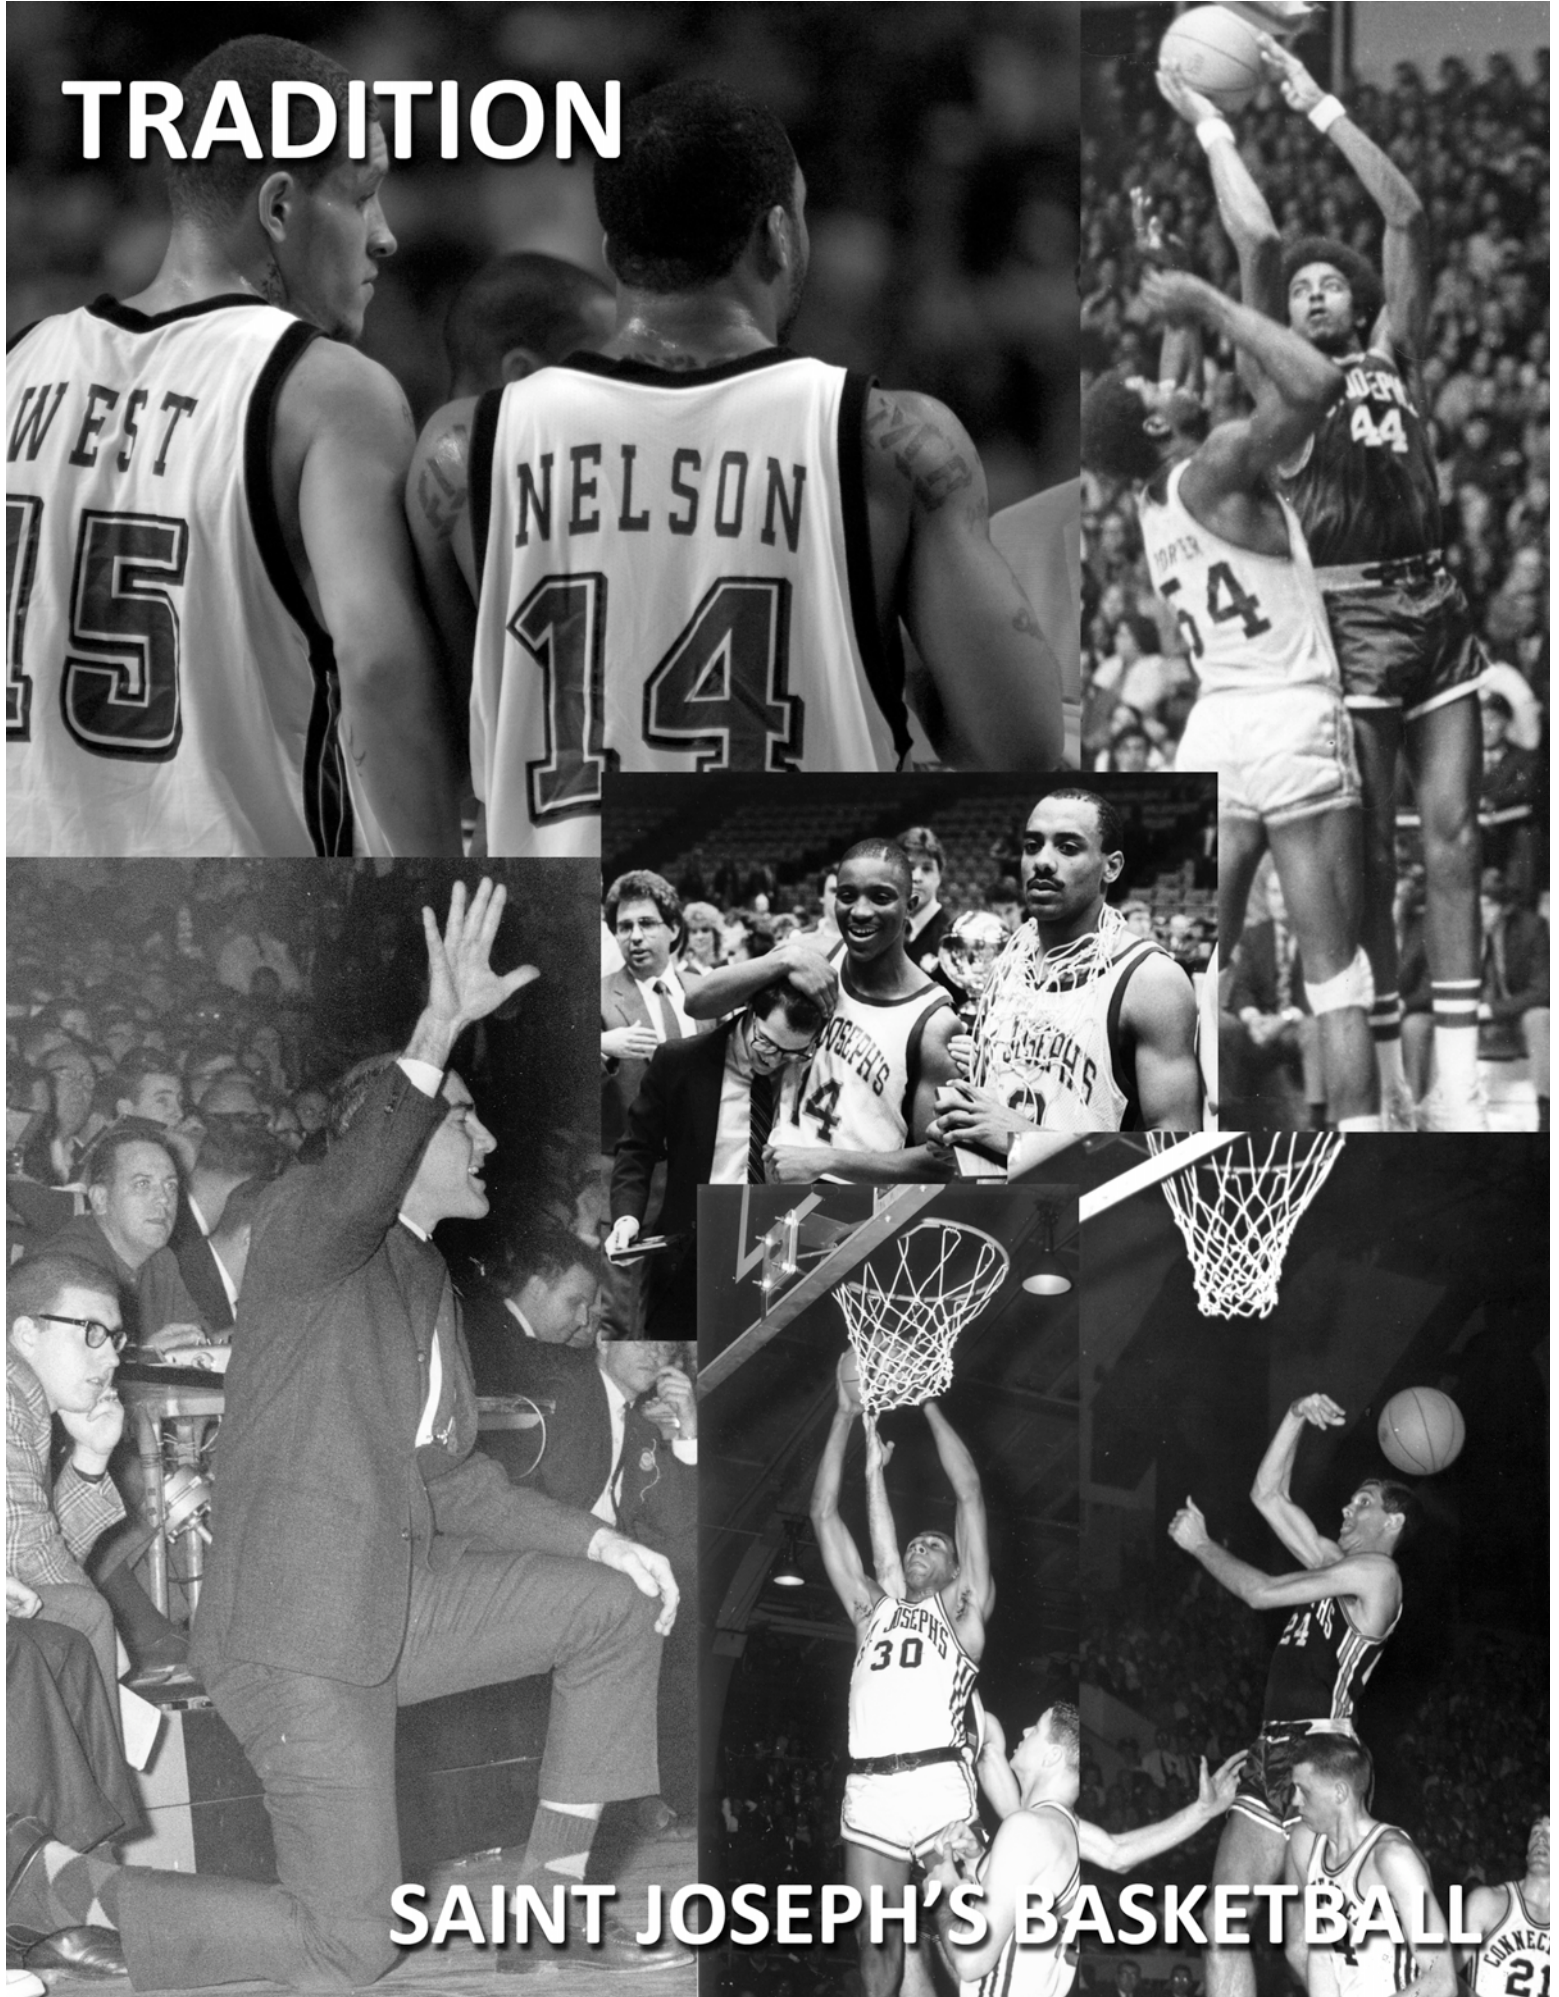

Martelli wants to make sure that Saint Joseph's regains the homecourt advantage it's had for many years.

"One of my main goals for this year is to recapture Hagan Arena. We have to do that by playing better basketball. We have to do that by embracing and encouraging our students to fill their seats. I appreciate the passion of our people. I understand their frustrations but they were no more frustrated or disappointed than I was and we're not going to let them down. I will not let them down."

Preseason Notes

- The Hawks return four starters from last year's team which won six of the last 11 games and made a run to the Atlantic 10 Semifinals, falling just three points short of the championship game.
- Saint Joseph's is again sporting one of the most youthful squads in school history. This year's team is now the youngest under Phil Martelli, surpassing last season's, which had just a combined 11 years of college experience. Martelli started four freshmen on 2010-11 opening day, which was his youngest starting lineup ever. SJU's 10-player roster in 2011-12 has combined to play a total of 232 collegiate games, and four players have played less than five games each.
- Phil Martelli needs 10 wins to become Saint Joseph's leader in career victories. He enters the season with 300 while current all-time leader Bill Ferguson registered 309 in 25 seasons (1928-53).
- Transfer Halil Kanacevic, who earned 2010 CAA All-Rookie honors while at Hofstra, will take to the court after sitting out last season and have three seasons of eligibility with the Hawks.
- Saint Joseph's will participate in the eight-team Charleston Classic (Nov. 17-20). The Hawks will open play against Georgia Tech and be joined by LSU, Northwestern, Seton Hall, Tulsa, VCU and Western Kentucky in the tournament. SJU will face Western Kentucky in the season opener (Nov. 11) for the second straight year.
- Carl Jones has already amassed 842 points in his career and will be looking to become the 48th SJU player to score 1,000 points, and the first third-year player to do so since Ahmad Nivins achieved it in 2007-08.
- The Hawks were picked to finish seventh in the Atlantic 10 Preseason Poll. Carl Jones was named to the Preseason All-Conference Third Team and C.J. Aiken was chosen to the Preseason All-Defensive Team.

The Philadelphia 76ers have held their preseason training camp at the facility over the past years. The court has been used by several NBA teams for workouts prior to playing the 76ers.

COACHING STAFF

PHIL MARTELLI

Head Coach - 17th Season

- 2004 Consensus National Coach of the Year •
- Four-time Atlantic 10 Coach of the Year •

In 16 seasons as Saint Joseph's University head coach, Phil Martelli has built a program that is consistently one of the top in the conference, a perennial post-season participant and a key player on the national scene, while earning his place among the top coaches in the school's storied history. He enters his 27th year overall at SJU, including 10 seasons as an assistant coach.

His 16-year career mark stands at 300-209, and he is nine victories away from tying the SJU record held by Bill Ferguson. Setting the school record for wins in a season (30) in 2004, Martelli has guided SJU to 20 or more victories six times in 16 seasons. He is 150-106 in Atlantic 10 play, which is the most conference wins for any active coach in the A-10.

In 2010-11, Martelli guided the youngest squad in his career, which included three freshman starters. The Hawks made an exciting late-season run, earning a berth in the Atlantic 10 Tournament with a win in the final regular-season game, and won two games in the tournament to reach the semifinals. He reached two milestones with his 300th career victory (March 11) and his 150th conference win (March 5), while also coaching his 500th game and 250th A-10 contest.

Martelli's 2009-10 squad went 11-20 coming off a 2008-09 season that saw the Hawks go 17-15 for his ninth consecutive winning season. Among the highlights of '08-09 was Ahmad Nivins earning AP Honorable Mention All-America honors and becoming the third Hawk in six years to garner the Atlantic 10's Player of the Year Award. Nivins was chosen by the Dallas Mavericks in the 2009 NBA Draft, becoming the third player coached by Martelli to be drafted.

The 2007-08 Hawks reached the Atlantic 10 championship game for the third time in four years and earned the program's 19th bid to the NCAA Tournament and Martelli's fifth. The 11th-seeded Hawks fell to sixth-seeded Oklahoma in the NCAA First Round, ending the year at 21-13.

Martelli reached a significant milestone in 2006-07 when he surpassed Hall of Famer Jack Ramsay for second place on the school's all-time list for wins, guiding a young squad to 18 victories.

Martelli has also been at his best when it counts the most as his 17 postseason wins (6 NCAA, 11 NIT) are the most in school history, ahead of Ramsay's 12. Martelli ranks first among Hawk coaches with a .653 postseason winning percentage (17-9) and has taken SJU to the postseason in seven of the last 11 years, and nine times in his 16 seasons.

Martelli turned in another top-notch coaching performance in 2005-06. The Hawks went from a 10-12 record in February to win the final five games of the regular season and three straight in the conference tournament to reach the Atlantic 10 championship for the second year in a row, falling just one point short of the title. The Hawks were rewarded with their sixth consecutive postseason bid, but saw the season come to an end in the NIT second round, closing with a 19-14 mark.

Martelli's effort was similar to the previous season where he turned in perhaps a more remarkable coaching job than in 2003-04 when he was the consensus National Coach of the Year. Faced with the loss of two NBA first-round draft picks from the '03-04 squad that went 30-2, the 2004-05 Hawks struggled early on, but Martelli reworked the team's style of play to guide SJU to 21 wins in the calendar year of 2005 to finish 24-12. Saint Joseph's posted the conference's best record (14-2) and won its fifth straight regular-season title to tie the league record. The Hawks garnered the top seed in the conference tournament for the second year in a row and reached the championship game. He was named the Atlantic 10 Coach of the Year for the second straight season and the fourth time in his career. The Hawks earned their fifth consecutive postseason bid and made an exciting six-game run in the NIT, falling on a last-second shot in the championship game. It marked the second time in his career that he guided SJU to the NIT title game.

Phil Martelli continues his climb up the charts, putting himself among the Hawks' all-time winningest coaches. In 2006-07, Martelli surpassed Naismith Basketball Hall of Famer Jack Ramsay and now ranks second in victories at SJU. Entering the 2011-12 season he needs just 10 victories to surpass Bill Ferguson and set the school record for coaching wins.

Phil Martelli's commitment to Saint Joseph's has been equaled by the University's commitment to him. Prior to the 2008-09 season, the University extended Martelli's contract through the 2015-16 season.

Martelli served as the head coach of the 2005 USA Under-21 World Championship Team, which competed at the FIBA U21 World Championship in Argentina, earning a fifth-place finish. He had previously worked with USA Basketball as an assistant coach for the USA's gold-medal winning teams at both the 2001 FIBA World Championship for Young Men and the 1998 Goodwill Games.

PHIL MARTELLI

Phil Martelli and Jameer Nelson collected all of the national Coach of the Year and Player of the Year Awards in 2004. The climax of the whirlwind awards tour was Nelson capturing the John R. Wooden Award and having the opportunity to meet coaching legend John Wooden at the awards ceremony in Los Angeles.

In 2003-04, Martelli guided a focused and unselfish squad that became the most compelling story in college basketball. The Hawks went undefeated in the regular season, reached the pinnacle as the top-ranked team in the nation and earned the school's first-ever number-one seed in the NCAA Tournament, advancing to the Elite Eight. Jameer Nelson was the consensus National Player of the Year and, along with teammate Delonte West, was a first-round selection in the NBA Draft. The Hawks became the first team since 1990-91 to go through the regular season without a loss (27-0). SJU opened the season ranked 12th in the polls and moved up throughout the year, taking the top spot on March 8, 2004, for the first time ever. SJU finished fifth for its highest final ranking since 1966. It was a school-record fourth straight season, and fifth in Martelli's tenure, that the Hawks were ranked in the AP poll.

Martelli guided SJU to its fourth NCAA appearance in nine seasons, and its first back-to-back berths since 1982. The top-seeded Hawks reached the Elite Eight for the first time since 1981 before falling to Oklahoma State in a heartbreaker, 64-62.

He joined Nelson to sweep the National Coach and Player of the Year awards, marking one of the few times in history that the top player and coach were from the same school. Martelli won the 2004 Naismith Award, the Henry Iba Award (USBWA), the inaugural Adolph Rupp Cup, the Coach of the Year awards from both the Associated Press and CBS/Chevrolet, and the NABC Co-Coach of the Year award. He was the Atlantic 10 Coach of the Year for the third time and a repeat winner of the Harry Litwack Big 5 Coach of the Year award.

During that season, the Hawks also won their second outright Big 5 title under Martelli and their fourth straight Atlantic 10 regular season crown. The squad was the recipient of the prestigious Wanamaker Award, given to the team or athlete which brings the greatest credit to the city of Philadelphia, and was named the Team of the Year by the Philadelphia Sportswriters Association.

One of the more colorful coaches in the nation, Martelli's personality, wit and accessibility have always made him a media favorite. His popularity grew to an even higher level in 2004, as the Hawks remained unbeaten and the coach was besieged by media requests from all over the country. Martelli remained as accommodating as ever and the Saint Joseph's story was well-documented by the Philadelphia press and told by countless media outlets nationwide. He continues to be called on for his analysis of games and issues and was an in-studio guest for the Turner Networks coverage of the 2011 NCAA Tournament.

Martelli also added a new title to his résumé, that of "author." The coach co-wrote a book, "Don't Call Me Coach: A Lesson Plan for Life" with Harold Gullan, Ph.D, which was published in the fall of 2007.

Martelli's commitment to Saint Joseph's is equaled by the University's commitment to him. The coach agreed to a new contract prior to the 2003-04 season that would extend his tenure through 2009-10 campaign. Following the thrilling run in '03-04, the University extended the coach's contract through the 2011-12 season. That commitment was taken a step further when, prior to the start of 2008-09, Martelli's contract was extended through 2015-16.

Martelli is not only passionate for coaching, but also for his work in the community. He is currently the chair of the Coaches vs. Cancer National Council as well as the co-chair of the Philadelphia chapter of that organization, as the city's coaches have become one of the top fundraising groups in the country. The Philadelphia coaches were honored at the 2004 NCAA Final Four with the Coaches vs. Cancer Champion Award presented by the National Association of Basketball Coaches and with the Community Service Award from the Philadelphia Sports Congress.

The coach has received numerous honors for his community work, highlighted by three honorary degrees. Martelli's alma mater, Widener University, bestowed upon him one of its highest honors on May 15, 2004 with an honorary doctorate in public service for his "altruistic work in the community and his positive influence as a teacher, coach and role model." On May 21, 2006, he addressed the graduates of Cabrini College and received an honorary doctor of humane letters degree in recognition of his "extraordinary career and service to the community." And in 2010, Martelli gave the commencement address at Immaculata University, while receiving a doctorate of humane letters.

He was also named the "Citizen of the Year" by the March of Dimes in 2004, was inducted into the CYO Hall of Fame for the Archdiocese of Philadelphia, and honored by the National Adoption Center to name a few. In 2006, Martelli was inducted into the Hall of Fame at Kennedy-Kenrick High School (formerly Bishop Kenrick), where he coached.

Martelli views himself as an ambassador for the University and takes the role very seriously. He is one of the most sought-after public speakers in Philadelphia, with an appeal that stretches even further outside the area. Making countless appearances year-round, he finds the time for many organizations, no matter how large or small.

Martelli has served as the honorary chairperson for the Centennial celebration of Ken-Crest, the largest community-based service provider for children and adults with disabilities in Southeastern Pennsylvania and Delaware.

He shows his commitment to the game of basketball by serving on numerous committees. He is the third vice president on the the Board of Directors of the National Basketball Coaches Association and serves on the NCAA Ethics Coalition. A voter for the ESPN/USA Today

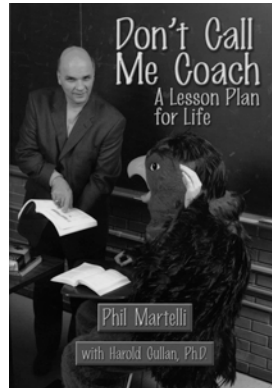

Coaches Poll, Martelli also served on the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Academic Enhancement Group.

After 10 years as an assistant at SJU, Martelli was named the 14th coach in school history on July 20, 1995, and was just the third non-alumnus to follow in the storied tradition of Hawk coaches.

Martelli burst onto the scene in 1995-96 and took SJU to the NIT Championship game as a rookie head coach, becoming just the fifth first-year head coach to take a team to the tournament's Final Four since the field expanded to 32 teams in 1980. Martelli led the '95-96 Hawks, which had lost the school's all-time leading scorer and a 1,000-point, 1,000-rebound performer, to a 19-13 record, tying him for third place with Jim Lynam (1978-79) for victories by a first-year SJU coach.

Expectations for 1996-97 were for a winning cam-

Martelli the Author

In 2007, Phil Martelli added a new title to his résumé - that of "author." He came out with his first book, entitled Don't Call Me Coach: A Lesson Plan for Life. The book is co-written by the Martelli and Harold Gullan, Ph.D.

In the book, Martelli passes on what he has learned from his own rich experience, which includes over 30 years of coaching at the high school and college levels. One of America's most colorful, outspoken, and successful coaches, Martelli compresses his three decades of experience into a 10-point "lesson plan for life" that will benefit anyone, no matter what those challenges may be. He speaks equally to teachers, parents, educators, and business executives - in short, to anyone who plays the role of coach in daily life.

Gullan, a noted historian and sports fan, is also the author of The Upset That Wasn't, Faith of Our Mothers, First Fathers, and Jumping Through Hoops.

The book, which includes a foreword by former Pennsylvania Governor Ed Rendell, was published by Camino Books of Philadelphia (www.caminobooks.com).

paign. And after a disheartening season-opening rout at Duke (89-60) in the first round of the Preseason NIT, Martelli and his charges regrouped and turned in one of the best seasons in the program's history. The team's accomplishments, most of which have now been surpassed by the '03-04 team, included a then-record-tying 26 wins (seven losses), and a final national ranking of 12th by the Associated Press and 17th by CNN/USA Today. The squad also put together a 10-game winning streak and three wins over Top 25 teams while winning both the Atlantic 10 regular season and tournament titles. The Hawks advanced to the NCAA Sweet 16 before suffering a loss to defending national champion Kentucky.

With the team's success came individual accolades for the second-year coach. He garnered Atlantic 10 Coach of the Year honors as well as being named District Coach of the Year by the USBWA, NABC, Eastern Basketball and Basketball Times. Martelli was also named the Eastern College Coach of the Year and was the co-recipient of the Big 5 award.

Martelli's third year at the helm was a true test of his character. The season started with the loss of one of his key players to academics and two highly-touted recruits to NCAA initial eligibility rules. Despite the depleted lineup, the coach kept his team competitive throughout the season, as the Hawks struggled to find wins while facing one of the most demanding schedules in school history. They totaled 11 wins, but the "never say die" spirit of SJU was evidenced by the team holding leads over five nationally-ranked teams late in the second half.

In 1998-99, the Hawk mentor faced perhaps his toughest challenge as a head coach, guiding a team that started a school-record four newcomers through a tough non-conference slate and the always imposing A-10 battles. Martelli and SJU got off to a strong start, defeating No. 21 Tennessee and winning the Cable Car Classic en route to a 9-7 record at mid-January. Youth finally caught up to the Hawks, however, as the team experienced a nine-game losing streak and finished the season with a 12-18 overall mark.

The 1999-2000 season included many highlights as the coach guided the team to a stunning 62-59 win over then-No. 5 Temple at The Palestra on February 29. It was Martelli's first win over Temple and the program's first win over a Top 5 team since February, 1984 (No. 2 DePaul). The team's 13-16 record was deceiving as the Hawks played a schedule ranked 32nd toughest in the nation.

Picked by most as a middle-of-the-pack Atlantic 10 team in 2000-01, SJU started strong, posting a 7-3 record in its first 10 games, and finished even stronger, going 14-2 in the conference to win the single division A-10 regular season title. Overall, the Hawks again tied the school-record for wins, compiling a 26-7 mark. The team moved into the Top 25 in both major polls in February, and was ranked in the final polls (No. 22 AP; No. 24 ESPN/USA Today).

Despite its ranking, and the presence of one of the nation's finest backcourts in junior Marvin O'Connor and National Freshman of the Year Jameer Nelson, SJU earned an at-large bid but only a number-nine seed. The Hawks responded by downing eighth-seeded Georgia Tech, 66-62, in the first round of the West Regional in San Diego. The team then showed its true mettle, battling top seed Stanford in one of the most exciting games of the NCAA Tournament before falling, 90-83.

As in 1996-97, Martelli picked up much-deserved hardware following the season. He was named Coach of the Year by the Atlantic 10, NABC (District III) and Philadelphia's Basketball Writers (Eastern College Coach of the Year). Nationally, he was a finalist for the national Coach of the Year by ESPN the Magazine and also a finalist for the Naismith College Basketball Coach of the Year award.

In the 2001-02 preseason, the Hawks were ranked as high as eighth by Sports Illustrated and 10th by both major polls. SJU stayed in the polls until mid-December when three straight losses (North Carolina, Georgia State and Gonzaga), all coinciding with an injury to All-American guard O'Connor, saw the team fall from the rankings. Saint Joseph's rebounded to post a 19-12 record, share the A-10 East title for Martelli's third regular-season crown, and earn its fourth postseason bid in seven years (NIT).

In 2002-03, after graduating four fifth-year seniors that compiled over 5,000 points and 2,200 rebounds, the Hawks were picked to be in the middle of the A-10 East Division. With arguably the nation's best point guard in the fold in Nelson, Martelli built the team around defense and perimeter play. The plan worked as SJU went on to lead the nation in field goal percentage defense (.372) and ranked seventh in scoring defense (59.5 ppg). The team cracked the national polls in February and ended the season with its third straight A-10 regular season title, second NCAA at-large bid in three seasons and a 23-7 record, despite a late-season injury to Delonte West.

Off the court, Martelli's lighter side has been featured weekly on his HawkTalk television show, which has run for 15 seasons as the most unique coach's show in the nation, with a "Tonight Show" format. Game highlights are included, but are secondary to the jokes and humorous interviews. Named the best coach's show in college basketball by The Sporting News in 2001, HawkTalk gained a much greater audience in its third year (1998-99), with its move to Comcast SportsNet, Philadelphia's regional all-sports station. The show's viewer base grew even more in 2003-04, when national network CBS College Sports aired the show for five years.

A four-time Atlantic 10 (1997, 2000, 2004, 2005) and four-time USBWA District Coach of the Year (1997, 2001, 2003, 2004), Martelli is one of just three Hawk coaches to record 200 career wins, posting his milestone victory against Buffalo on March 19, 2005.

A 1976 graduate of Widener University, Martelli began his career on Hawk Hill with SJU's 1985-86 team, which reached the NCAA Tournament. In his decade as an assistant, he was part of the Hawks' NIT teams in 1992-93 and 1994-95.

Prior to his arrival at SJU, Martelli spent seven years as head basketball coach at Bishop Kenrick High School in Norristown, Pa. At Kenrick, he led his team to six straight Catholic League playoff appearances, a school record, and still owns the school's all-time mark for wins with 108. His best season came in 1982, when he was named prep Coach of the Year by both the Philadelphia Inquirer and Philadelphia Daily News. He earned similar honors in both 1980 and 1982 for Montgomery County from the Norristown Times-Herald.

Martelli began his career as the junior varsity coach at Cardinal O'Hara High in Springfield, Pa., for the 1976-77 season. He moved on the following year to become an assistant at his alma mater, where he helped guide Widener to the NCAA Division III Final Four. After that season, he accepted the head job at Kenrick.

As a player, he was part of Widener's NCAA Tournament teams in both 1974-75 and 1975-76, serving as team co-captain as a senior. The point guard also set the school's single season and career assist marks.

Martelli and his wife, Judy, a former basketball player with the national champion Immaculata College teams in the 1970s, have three children. Phil, Jr., a 2003 SJU graduate, is an assistant basketball coach at Niagara University, Jimmy is an assistant coach at Rutgers University, and Elizabeth is a 2009 graduate of Saint Joseph's. The couple has a grandson, Philip Stephen, who was born to Phil, Jr., and wife Meghan in October 2009.

PHIL MARTELLI

One of the most heartwarming stories of 2010-11 was Martelli making good on his promise to Lenny Martelli (no relation), who had been paralyzed in a snowboarding accident the previous year. Phil told Lenny that when he was able to walk again, they would walk together onto the court for a game. Lenny joined Phil at the Xavier game, earning a standing ovation from the Hagan Arena crowd and the Saint Joseph's and Xavier teams.

PHIL MARTELLI

Phil Martelli joined friend Geno Auriemma, the head women's coach at Connecticut, at Auriemma's induction into the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame on September 8, 2006. The duo coached together at Bishop Kenrick High School when Martelli was the head coach there early in his career. Auriemma also spent a year at Saint Joseph's, as an assistant with the women's basketball team.

Martelli received his third honorary doctorate in six years when he gave the Commencement Address at Immaculata University in 2010. His alma mater, Widener University, had bestowed the honor upon him in 2004, while he also received an honorary degree in 2006 from Cabrini College.

Martelli coached the 2005 USA Men's Under 21 World Championship Team at the FIBA U21 World Championship in Argentina in August, 2005.

The 2004 winner of the Adolph Rupp Cup as the nation's top coach, Martelli was called upon to present the award to the 2006 Coach of the Year, Roy Williams of North Carolina at the 2006 Final Four in Indianapolis.

Martelli faced a unique situation in 2010-11, as he coached against one of his sons for the first time when the Hawks played Rutgers. The elder Martelli greets son Jimmy prior to the game, which was a 76-70 Saint Joseph's win. His oldest son, Phil, Jr., is currently an assistant coach at the University of Delaware, after stints at Manhattan and Niagara.

Martelli and good friend Fran Dunphy of Temple serve as the co-chairs of the Philadelphia chapter of Coaches vs. Cancer. The Philadelphia coaches have become one of the highest fundraising groups in the country.

MARK BASS

Assistant Coach

13th Season

Mark Bass, one of the most prolific shooters in Saint Joseph's history, is the veteran among the Hawks' assistant coaches, and is now entering his 13th season at his alma mater. He is the second longest tenured assistant coach in SJU men's basketball history, behind Dan Kenney, who was an assistant for 17 seasons (1953 to 1970).

Bass joined the Hawks' staff in 1999-2000 and has been involved with teams that made six consecutive post-season appearances and won five Atlantic 10 regular-season titles. Nine years after he led the Hawks to the NIT Final as a player in 1996, Bass again helped SJU reach New York City and the NIT Final as a coach in 2005.

In 2005, Bass was honored with the William J. Bennett Memorial Award, recognizing dedication and loyalty to the Saint Joseph's men's basketball program. He was a co-recipient of the award with then-fellow staff member Monté Ross.

A fiery leader on the court, and two-year team captain, Bass led the Hawks to the NIT Finals in his senior season, 1995-96, and ranked second on the team with his average of 14.3 points per game. He connected for school records of 91 3-pointers and 268 attempts, season marks which were later eclipsed by Pat Carroll in 2005. A Second Team All-Big 5 selection, Bass made 225 3-pointers during his career from 1992-96, a total that now ranks fifth on the Hawks' all-time list. As a freshman, the guard led the Atlantic 10 Conference in free throw percentage with a school-record 86.9 percent, a mark which was just broken by Langston Galloway in 2011-12 (88.7). Bass also led the A-10 in 3-point percentage as a junior (.423), making him just the second Saint Joseph's player to lead the league in two different categories.

In 2001, Bass became the first member of the 1996 NIT Finalist team to be inducted into the Saint Joseph's Basketball Hall of Fame.

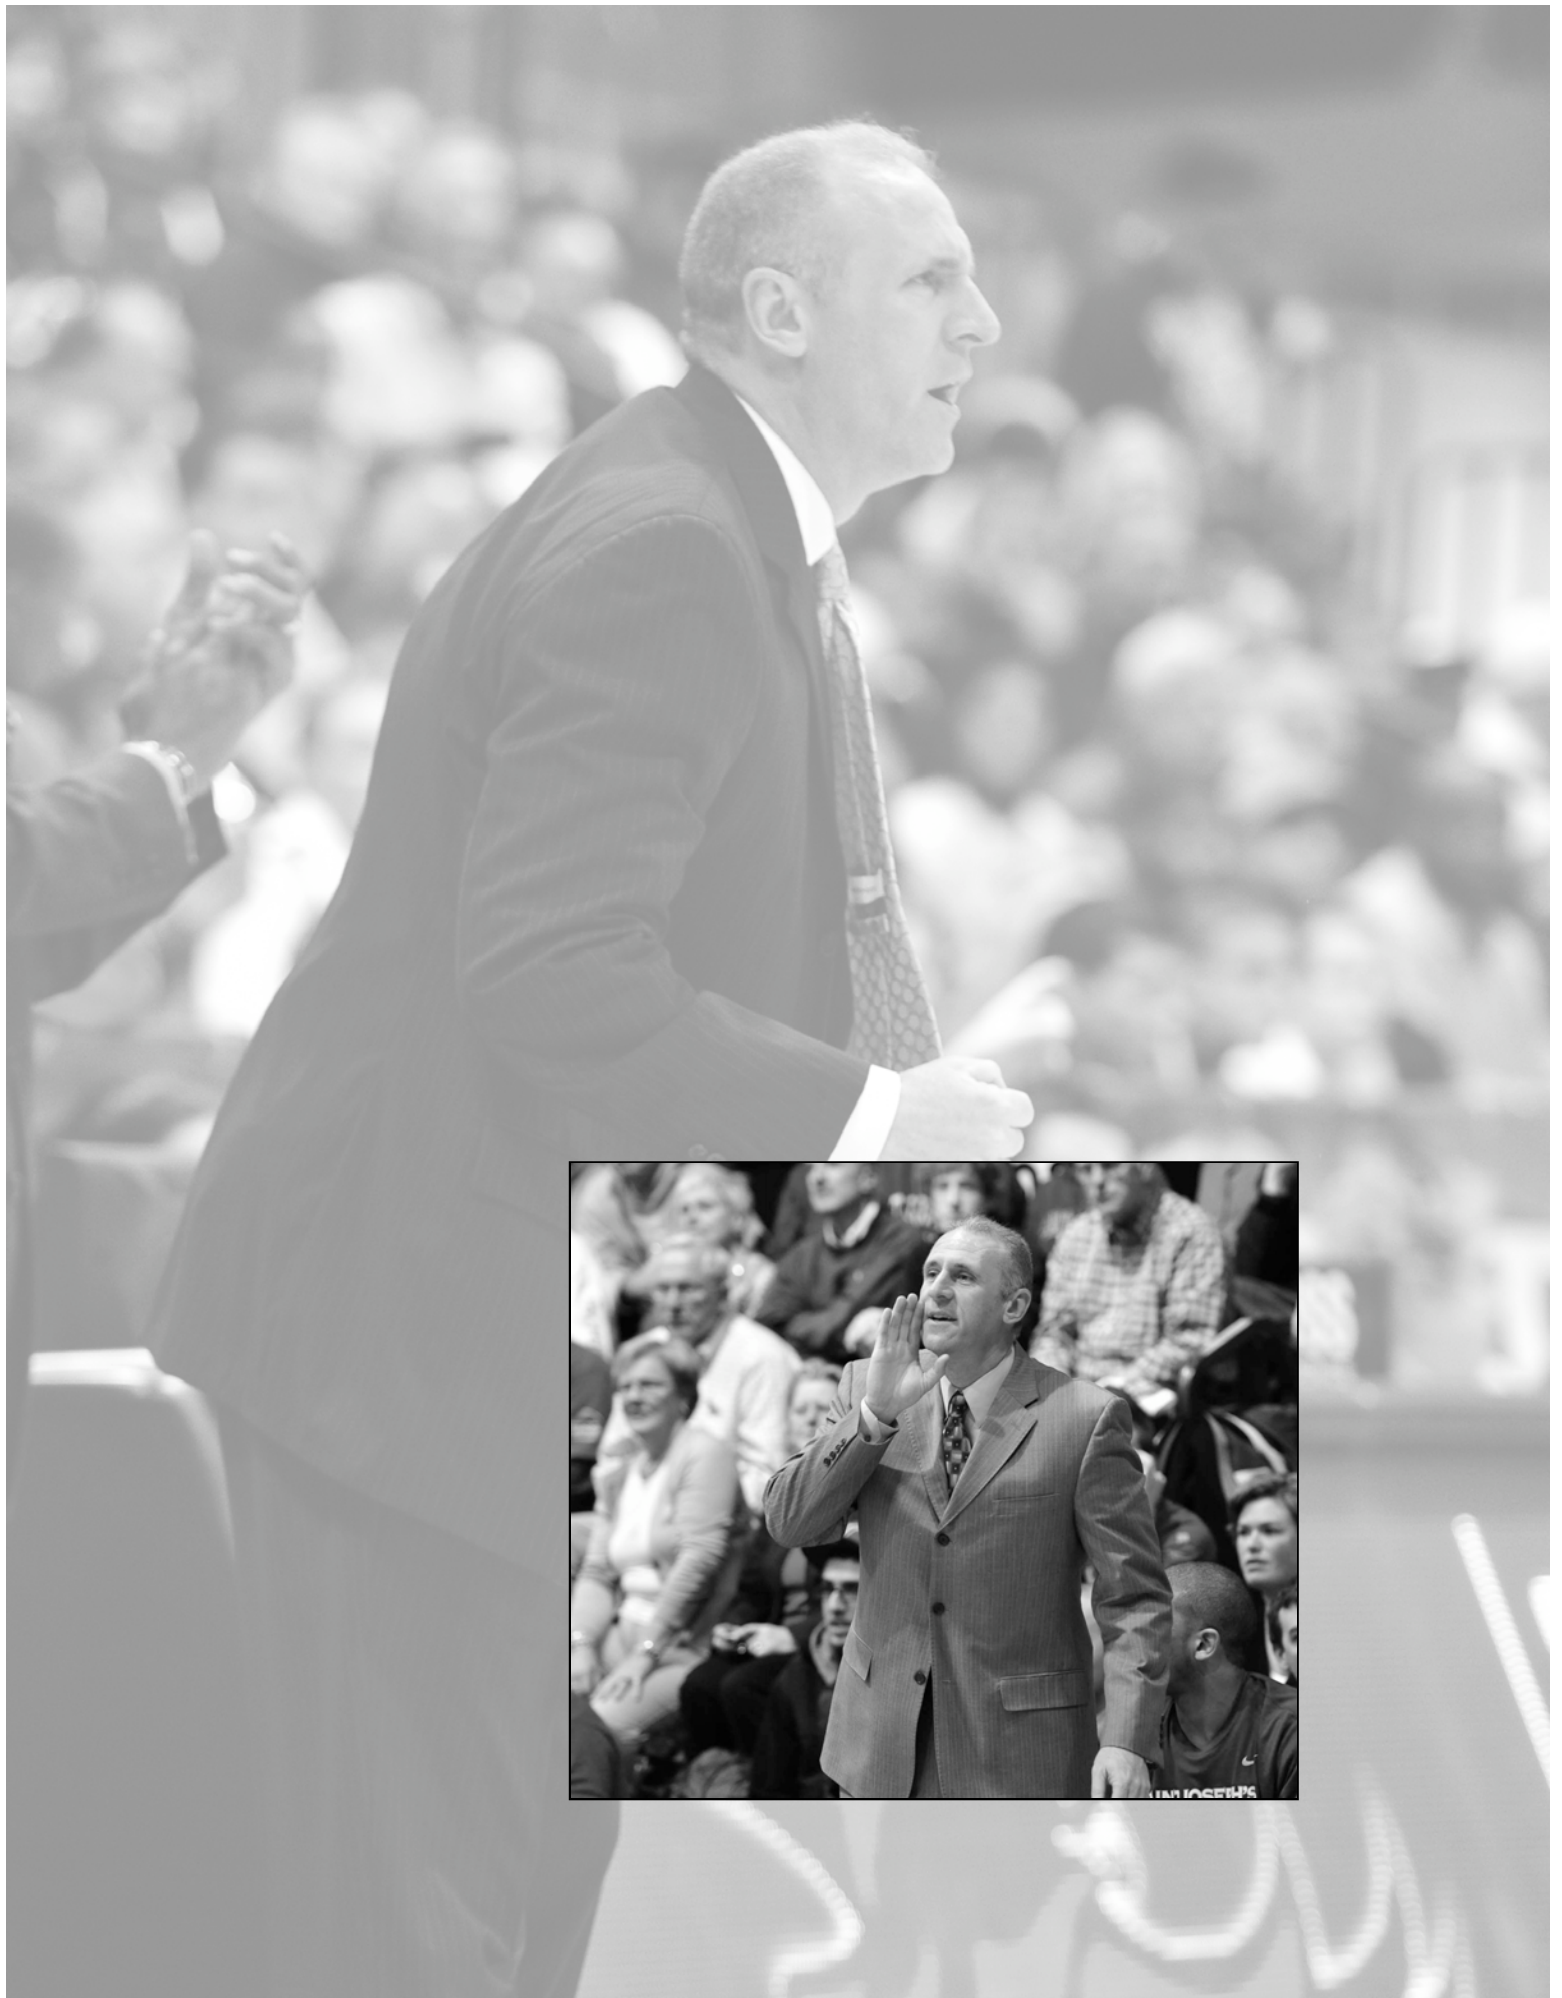

Upon graduation he played one season of professional basketball with the Tianjin Breakers in the Chinese Professional League in 1996-97. Following that, he served two seasons (1997-99) as an assistant coach under Max Good at Maine Central Institute, helping guide the team to back-to-back New England Prep School Championships, including a perfect 35-0 season in 1997-98.

A 1991 graduate of McCorristin High School in New Jersey and native of Trenton, Bass was named the Mercer County Player of the Year as a senior and set the all-time scoring record with 1,482 points in his career. He played for one year at Maine Central Institute, helping the squad to a 27-1 record with the lone loss coming in the New England Prep School Championship game.

Bass, who was inducted into the Mercer County CYO Hall of Fame in November, 2004, resides with his wife, Tracie, and son, Noel, in Lawnside, N.J.

DAVID DUDA

Assistant Coach
6th Season

David Duda is now in his sixth season with the Hawks after a highly successful head coaching career in the Division III ranks.

At SJU, Duda was instrumental in the development of 2009 Atlantic 10 Player of the Year Ahmad Nivins, who was selected by the Dallas Mavericks in the second round of the 2009 NBA Draft.

Duda came to SJU in 2006 after eight years as head coach at Widener University, where he compiled a 143-68 record, with two Middle Atlantic Conference Commonwealth championships and three trips to the NCAA Division III Tournament. He also served as Widener's athletic director from 2003 to 2006, overseeing the operation of the University's athletics program with 20 varsity teams.

Widener enjoyed its greatest success under his leadership in 2005-06, when the team finished 23-6, won the Commonwealth Conference regular-season title and made the school's first NCAA Sweet 16 appearance since 1987. Duda earned Coach of the Year honors for both the Commonwealth Conference and the NABC Mid-Atlantic Region.

Duda led the Pioneers to a record-breaking 24-4 season in 1999-00 and was recognized as MAC Coach of the Year.

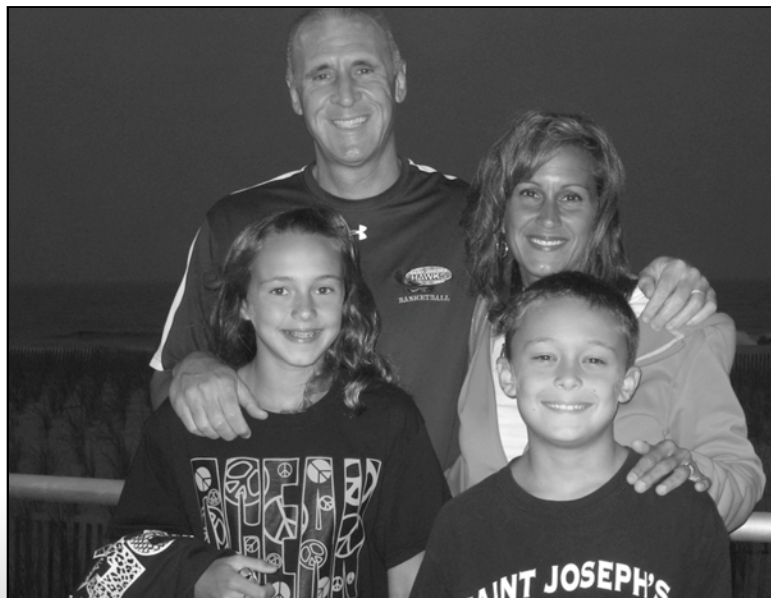

A 1988 graduate of Spring Garden College, where he was a two-time honorable mention All-American, Duda began his coaching career as the top assistant to Herb Magee at Philadelphia University. During those seven seasons the Rams had their most successful period in school history, and Philadelphia University was the winningest Division II school in the country during that span with a 171-35 record.

He moved on to be the head coach at Delaware Valley College in 1997 for two seasons. Duda turned around a team which had been 0-23, leading it to a 12-12 mark for the first non-losing season in 11 years. He earned the Freedom Conference Coach of the Year award in 1998. His career coaching record in 10 seasons is 159-99.

Duda's connection with the Hawks' head coach dates back to 1981 when he played for Martelli on the varsity team at Bishop Kenrick High School (1981-84).

Duda lives in Collegeville, Pa., with his wife Barbara and children, Danielle and David.

4th Season

Geoff Arnold enters his fourth year on Phil Martelli's staff after rejoining his alma mater for the 2008-09 season. The 1986 graduate of Saint Joseph's is now in his second tenure as an assistant coach, giving him a total of seven years on the Hawks' staff.

Prior to making his return to Saint Joseph's, Arnold was the associate head coach at Drexel University for seven years. While there, he was instrumental in the Dragons' recruiting efforts that helped them reach the postseason four times in seven seasons, including a 23-9 record in 2006-07.

The 1986 SJU graduate previously served as an assistant coach with the Hawks from 1993 to 1996. That stint included one year with Martelli, who was in his first season (1995-96) as head coach. During that season, the Hawks went 26-6 and reached the NIT Championship game.

Arnold left Saint Joseph's in 1997 to join former Hawk teammate Bruiser Flint at the University of Massachusetts, serving on Flint's staff for five years. He then returned to Philadelphia in 2001 when Flint was named head coach at Drexel.

Arnold, originally from Sharon Hill, Pa. and Darby Township High School, was a senior tri-captain for the 1985-86 Saint Joseph's team that won the Atlantic 10 Championship, recorded 26 wins and earned a bid to the NCAA Tournament. During his senior season, which was Martelli's first as an assistant coach at SJU, he averaged 8.9 points and led the team with 134 assists. He was inducted into the Saint Joseph's Basketball Hall of Fame in 1992.

Upon graduation from Saint Joseph's, Arnold played for the Wildwood Aces of the United States Basketball League and then served as an assistant coach for one season. After one year out of basketball, he became a full-time assistant with the Hawks in 1992-93, working on John Griffin's staff for three seasons.

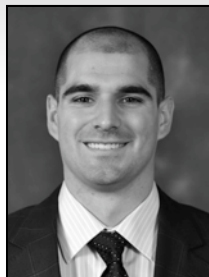

He is the uncle of Hawk sophomore Langston Galloway.

Arnold and his wife, Stephanie, reside in Philadelphia with their daughter, Gabrielle Tryce.

THE HAWK

One of the most famous mascots in college sports, the Saint Joseph's Hawk has been flapping its wings for 56 years.

The Hawk, which celebrated its golden anniversary in 2005-06, is best known for staying in constant motion by flapping its wings throughout every basketball game and representing the Saint Joseph's motto, "The Hawk Will Never Die."

Jim Brennan originated the idea for a hawk as mascot during the 1954-55 season. Brennan, an ex-Marine and SJU cheerleader, at first wanted to secure an actual hawk, but later switched to the costume idea. The student government raised the 120 dollars needed to buy the initial costume, which Brennan donned for three years. He made his debut as the Hawk on January 4, 1956, a 69-56 win over La Salle at the Palestra. Since then, and including this season, a total of 31 SJU students have donned the costume. The Hawk has not missed a men's basketball game since that first season in 1955-56.

There have been two women to serve as the mascot - Sara Brennan, in 2000-01 and Brienne Ryan in 2009-10.

In addition to the constant flapping, the Hawk is also recognized by its "flying" in figure eights around the court during timeouts. Years ago, ESPN used a "flap-o-meter" on the national telecast of a Saint Joseph's game to estimate that the Hawk flaps its wings 3,500 times during a regulation game.

The Hawk is unique because it is one of the few mascots in the nation that travels to every game, and the student who holds the position gains a tuition scholarship. The student, who is selected through an interview process during the previous spring semester, also serves as a team manager for the men's basketball team and travels with the squad.

The most decorated mascot in the country, The Hawk has garnered numerous accolades in its 50-year history. The Sporting News, Sports Illustrated, Sports Illustrated for Kids, Street & Smith's Basketball Yearbook and ESPN College Basketball magazine have selected it as the nation's top mascot. Eastern Basketball tabbed The Hawk as the Atlantic 10 Conference's best mascot, while The Hawk won a "Best of Philly" award from Philadelphia Magazine in 2003-04. The Hawk was selected as a 2008 nominee for the Mascot Hall of Fame.

Saint Joseph's athletic teams have been recognized with the nickname "Hawks" since 1929. At that time, the school's yearbook editor, Charlie Dunn, initiated a contest among the student body for a symbol. More than 100 submissions were narrowed to two, with "Hawks" winning out over "Grenadiers" (World War I soldiers who specialized in tossing grenades) by a slim margin in the final vote.

John Gallagher '31, a catcher on the Saint Joseph's baseball team, submitted the winning suggestion. He won a sweater with a special Saint Joseph's monogram for selecting the winning name. According to the Student Annual, the nickname was appropriate because it typified "the fighting spirit of our crimson and gray athletes and it is suggestive of the aerial attack which has made our football team famous." Ironically, football was discontinued at Saint Joseph's following the 1939 season.

But it has been the connection with the storied tradition of the Saint Joseph's men's and women's basketball programs that has given The Hawk mascot its prominence on the national level, making it one of the most recognized mascots in college athletics.

(Complete list of all-time Hawk mascots on page 174)

Joe Mreczko
THE HAWK

Joe Mreczko will serve as the Saint Joseph's Hawk mascot for the 2011-12 season. He is the 34th student to represent the University as its mascot in the 56th year of one of college basketball's most famous traditions.

A senior food marketing major from Staten Island, N.Y., Mreczko served as a manager for the SJU women's basketball teams for the past two seasons, and was the Hawk mascot in 2009-10.

On campus, he is the vice president of professional events for Saint Joseph's Food Marketing Association. He was also instrumental in the planning of "Hawk Hysteria," the student event that tipped off this year's basketball season.

A graduate of St. Joseph's By the Sea High School, he previously worked as the mascot for the Staten Island Yankees.
