SAINT JOSEPH'S UNIVERSITY

Spirit | Intellect | Purpose

Founded in 1851, Saint Joseph's is an independent, Catholic, Jesuit university that teaches disciplined reasoning, effective communication, and a love of learning. From Willings Alley in Old City Philadelphia to Stiles Street in North Philadelphia to its current location on City Avenue, Saint Joseph's has continued to grow and change with the times. The University combines the Jesuit tradition of academic excellence, a history of service, and an ideal campus location to produce successful students who seek to make a good world even better. An academically rigorous and supportive community, Saint Joseph's challenges its students to exceed their highest professional and personal ambitions, fosters the mature development of values, and deepens a desire to help shape the world. These characteristics are reflective of the University's core values of Spirit, Intellect and Purpose.

Full-time, undergraduate day enrollment is approximately 4,600. Graduate, evening and executive programs push total enrollment to more than 8,000.

SPIRIT

Men and women leave Saint Joseph's prepared. The University boasts an excellent record of its graduates earning initial employment, enrollment in professional schools, and other advanced-degree programs. Part-time work and internships provide real-world experiences, the kind which delight future employers. And with its many diverse student organizations, SJU offers ample opportunities to assume leadership positions.

An extensive on-campus recruitment program provides SJU graduates with a head start in their employment search. Regular meetings with faculty advisors – along with advisory programs in pre-law and the health professions – assist students who wish to further their schooling.

SJU's City Avenue location combines the best of dynamic Philadelphia with the suburban, residential setting of the elegant Main Line. Saint Joseph's 103 acres span two counties, allowing students to literally enjoy the best of both worlds. The city of Philadelphia, with its tremendous wealth of historical, cultural, social, and athletic attractions, is easily accessible, while the safety, serenity, and greenery of a suburban campus are right at hand.

The friendly atmosphere and close-knit campus ensure that students don't get lost literally or figuratively at Saint Joseph's.

INTELLECT

Saint Joseph's nationally recognized academic reputation is confirmed by ongoing acknowledgment in Barron's, U.S. News & World Report, and Peterson's. The Jesuit tradition of intellectual inquiry and personal concern manifests itself in small, challenging classes taught by a caring faculty. Graduate assistants do not teach, so undergraduates receive the very best educational experience. One-on-one interaction among students and faculty is a reality at Saint Joseph's.

A solid liberal arts curriculum provides across-the-board learning for every student. Supporting that curriculum are comprehensive academic majors and learning facilities. The result is a broad education that prepares students not only for employment and graduate school, but also for life itself.

In the fall of 1998, SJU opened the $25 million Owen A. Mandeville Hall, which houses the Erivan K. Haub School of Business, the Center for Food Marketing and Wolfington Teletorium, the region's only "Teletorium" and "Moot Boardrooms." It is an 87,000-square-foot international academic center featuring state-of-the-art distance learning technology.

PURPOSE

The students of Saint Joseph's University are dedicated to bettering today's world. A natural spirit of volunteerism has enabled the University's community service programs to become the most popular extracurricular activities on campus. In addition, a service learning program allows students to receive academic credit for their work outside the classroom.

SJU offers local, national and international opportunities for student service. From parts of Philadelphia to New Jersey; from Tijuana, Mexico, to the Appalachian Mountains; and from Ecuador to Tanzania, Saint Joseph's students embrace the Jesuit mission of serving those in need. The Thanksgiving Dinner Dance for area senior citizens and the Hand-in-Hand Festival for the handicapped are two annual student-run events that draw thousands of special visitors to campus for fun and friendship.

SAINT JOSEPH'S UNIVERSITY

Former Saint Joseph's baseball star Jamie Moyer (1982-84), pitcher for the 2008 World Champion Philadelphia Phillies, received an honorary degree from the University on April 30, 2009. Moyer and his wife, Karen, were each given a Doctor of Public Service degree in recognition of their charitable work with the Moyer Foundation. The Moyer Foundation is a non-profit organization whose mission is to provide comfort and support to children enduring a time of profound physical, emotional or financial distress.

Campus Life at Saint Joseph's University

The culture of Saint Joseph's invites students to give fully of themselves and be actively involved in all aspects of campus life. Most take advantage of the opportunities available to them to grow intellectually, socially, physically, morally, ethically, and spiritually. This infectious spirit of positive engagement creates a highly dynamic and interactive community, built upon Catholic, Jesuit values.

Personal integrity and concern for others distinguish campus life. Students support one another, respect differences, discover common bonds and build lifelong friendships during their years at the University. Their attachment to the extended Saint Joseph's community remains strong throughout their lives and serves as a guiding example for how to live in a wider world as caring family members and engaged citizens.

Life After Saint Joseph's

An Expansive Metropolitan Experience

Saint Joseph's University is closely allied with the entire Philadelphia region. Due to its unique City Line location, students enjoy both a tranquil campus and ready access to the city's diverse population, vibrant cultural life, major-league sports and entertainment, rich history and abundant professional opportunities. Philadelphia – the nation's sixth largest city and hub of the Northeast corridor – serves as a kind of alternate campus for SJU students.

Students take advantage of the city in many ways. Thanks to an extensive and supportive alumni network, they obtain internships with leading companies and other regional employers, take part in cooperative learning programs and find rewarding positions in the corporate, government and service sectors.

SJU students take frequent advantage of the artistic and cultural resources Philadelphia offers – the Philadelphia Museum of Art, the Franklin Institute Science Museum, and the Kimmel Center for the Performing Arts, to name a few. In addition to rooting for their beloved Hawks, SJU students can be found cheering on the professional sports teams in the city, particularly the Eagles, Flyers, Phillies and 76ers.

EDUCATIONAL SUPPORT SERVICES

Janet Greder, in her eighth year as the university's director of educational support services for student-athletes, directs a multifaceted program of academic support that affords student-athletes the opportunity to succeed both in the classroom and on the field. In addition to overseeing the program for all of SJU's student-athletes, she works directly with the men's basketball program.

Greder came to SJU after three years as an academic coordinator at the University of Iowa. From 1997 to 2001, she was the assistant academic coordinator at Creighton University. A native of North Platte, Neb., she received her bachelor's degree in education from the University of Nebraska-Kearney in 1986 and a master of science degree in counseling from Nebraska-Omaha in 1997. She resides in Drexel Hill, Pa.

Ken Krimmel is in his fourth year as assistant director after serving an internship in the department in 2008. A 2003 graduate of Penn State with a degree in elementary education, he received his master's of education degree from Temple in 2008. The native of State College, Pa., previously was a teacher and assistant basketball coach at North Penn High School. He and his wife, Katie, reside in Ardmore, Pa.

Suzanne Pearce is in her fourth year as the department's learning specialist. She earned her bachelor's degree in elementary and special education from Saint Joseph's in 2002 and then received her master's degree for certification as a reading specialist from SJU the next year. Originally from Westville, N.J., Pearce came to Saint Joseph's after serving as a program specialist at the Kingsway Learning Center. She and her husband, Al, and son, Joe, reside in Doylestown, Pa.

Greder and Krimmel monitor academic progress of the student-athletes in compliance with SJU and NCAA rules and regulations. The office is a liaison between the athletic department and the faculty, while serving as a secondary academic advisor to the student-athletes, helping with registration, among other issues.

The office also assists student-athletes in career development and runs time management and study skills workshops throughout the academic year.

All freshman student-athletes, along with select upperclassmen, are required to attend study hall four nights a week. The office, located in the Science Center 113, has eight individual study rooms, each equipped with a computer.

Coordinated through the Office of Educational Support Services for Student-Athletes, Saint Joseph's student-athletes utilize numerous support programs available through the University. Those programs include the Learning Resource Center, Career Services, the Counseling Center and the Writing Center. The services available to student-athletes; career choice assistance, academic skills workshops, individual tutoring and personal development, allow for success in the present while preparing for the future.

The office is aware of the challenges today's student-athletes face both on and off the playing field. To prepare them, the Office of Educational Support Services for Student-Athletes organizes and facilitates a Life Skills Program. This is designed to provide student-athletes with educational experiences that will assist them in bridging the gap from high school to college and from college to professional life. The program is designed to reach each student-athlete based on his or her individual needs. The Life Skills Program focuses on the individual as a whole – academically, athletically, and emotionally – and on the changing needs and skills of that individual in the years during and after college. Among the wide range of topics covered are time management, stress management, resume writing and interviewing, alcohol and drug awareness, and financial planning.

The office also oversees the Student-Athlete Advisory Committee (SAAC), which acts as liaison between the University community and the student-athlete body. Members are selected by respective coaches or team members at the beginning of each academic year. SAAC works to encourage and promote student-athletes to be student leaders that represent individual varsity teams and the entire athletic department as a vocal, integral part of the greater Saint Joseph's community.

STUDENT-ATHLETE SERVICES

The Saint Joseph's men's basketball team is provided with all of the services needed to compete at the highest level: strength and conditioning, nutrition, and sports psychology.

Strength and Conditioning

The Saint Joseph's University Strength and Conditioning philosophy is to create safe, progressive and comprehensive strength and conditioning programs that prepare student-athletes to compete at the highest level. This is done by designing sport-specific programs that maximize the student-athlete's performance. Each program is based on orthopedically safe, physiologically sound exercises and comprehensive total body training. By systematically and progressively overloading the muscles trained and holding each athlete accountable for each repetition of each exercise of every workout, the program ensures consistent gains in strength and power. The focus is to teach the athlete to produce maximal force and effort repeatedly for within a given period of time. Additionally, by holding each athlete accountable and expecting them to train with intensity and focus, our program will also improve the mental toughness of every athlete that is trained, giving them more confidence in difficult situations.

Brian Bingaman is in his second year as the Hawks' first full-time strength and conditioning coach. Bingaman came to Saint Joseph's after serving in the same position at La Salle University for five years. He was previously the assistant strength and conditioning coach at Duquesne University for one year and was a graduate assistant coach at Penn State University during the 2003-04 school year. A native of North Umberland, Pa., Bingaman was an Honorable Mention All-America in football at Bloomsburg University. Upon graduation from Bloomsburg in 2003, he earned his master's degree in health education from Penn State in 2008.

Serving as graduate assistants this year are Eric Clark and Ben Steenrod. Clark is a 2008 Towson University graduate and former football player with the Tigers, while Steenrod graduated from Virginia Tech in 2008 and worked with the strength and conditioning staffs at both Virginia Tech and Villanova.

Nutrition

The Saint Joseph's men's basketball team works with Jeanie Subach, a registered/licensed dietitian and sports nutritionist, to provide nutritional guidance during the season, as well as during the pre-season.

Subach serves as the sports nutritionist for the Philadelphia Eagles and Philadelphia 76ers. She also trains sports medicine fellows in the Crozer Keystone sports medicine fellowship program and is an adjunct faculty member at Immaculata University.

Subach earned both her bachelor's and master's degrees from Immaculata University and is a member of the Pennsylvania and American Dietetic Associations.

Sports Psychology

At Saint Joseph's, there is an understanding that reaching one's athletic potential requires mental as well as physical skills. With that in mind, the athletic department provides sports psychology services for student-athletes, teams, and coaches, utilizing one of the nation's top sports psychologists, Dr. Joel Fish.

Student-athletes have access to Dr. Fish to develop mental skills for peak performance. Strategies are taught to help improve student-athlete confidence, composure, concentration, mental preparation, positive attitude, and clutch performance. Strategies are also designed to help teams develop effective communication and teamwork.

Coaches have Dr. Fish as a sports psychology resource to help with team building, motivation, mental toughness, and helping them work with different personality types. Team captains and leaders are taught effective leadership skills such as positive peer pressure and conflict resolution.

Student-athletes can meet individually with Dr. Fish to discuss off-the-field issues, such as stress management and personal relationships that are impacting upon athletic performance. Confidentiality is maintained in these individual meetings. Referrals, if indicated, are made to the University Counseling Center.

Saint Joseph's University recognizes that there is a connection between a sound mind and a sound body. Sports psychology is an example of the Athletic Department providing its student-athletes, teams, and coaches with a valuable resource for success on and off the playing field.

SJU TRADITION & SPIRIT

Why Hawk Hill?

In the early 1920's, former University president Albert G. Brown, S.J., decided to move the college campus from its location just north of the city at 17th and Stiles to its current site on Philadelphia's city line. He selected the location in part because its hilltop perch overlooking downtown Philadelphia provided a dramatic setting for the construction of the college's main building, Barbelin Hall. In fact, for many years Barbelin's signature carillon tower ranked as the highest point from sea level in the city of Philadelphia. Later, according to oral tradition, students and faculty frequently saw real hawks circling the skies above Barbelin, before swooping down on their prey. The familiar scene eventually led to the coining of the moniker "Hawk Hill."

Crimson and Gray

The college colors of crimson and gray date back to the 1890's when it is related that a young seminarian leading a pep rally saw the colors on a book he was holding. Thinking they looked attractive together, he announced that these would be the school colors.

"The Hawk Will Never Die!"

The Hawk is one of the most famous mascots in the country, best known for staying in constant motion by flapping its "wings" from tip-off to the final buzzer of every game, as well as for "flying" in figure eights around the court during timeouts. The constant flapping, coupled with the scrappy play of the University's athletic teams, helped to spawn the school's familiar slogan "The Hawk Will Never Die!"

ALL-TIME HAWK MASCOTS

One of the most famous mascots in college athletics, the Saint Joseph's Hawk has been on the court for 56 years. The Hawk's first appearance was on January 4, 1956, in a 69-56 win over La Salle at the Palestra.
